"It is not learning, grace nor gear,
Nor easy meat and drink,
But bitter pinch of pain and fear
That makes creation think."

Ahem! Commissioner Fenning
"coughs up."

Up to the time of rattling to press no Congressional regurgitations had been reported by the Antislavery League.

The young army captain who married the daughter of the King of Italy is going to be promoted to major. It is understood he has some pull with Mussolini.

"Hail to St. Jackson! Hail to him Whose lustrous fame no time can dim?"

He smote the British, hip and thigh,
And waved our banner to the sky.
Somebody yields 'Representative Hammer two minutes he didn't know he was going to get, and an historical effort long in preparation finds its way into the Congressional Record, wherein 'tis proved that Old Hickory was born in "Norfolk Carroll," and not "Sousse Cliney."

Now, it is dangerous, as Macaulay has said, to assert a negative, yet we venture the opinion that Andy wasn't born in either, but that he was born in Carrickfergus, Ireland, and brought to America an infant in arms. We got this from the late Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, who had as keen a lust for the truth as any man we have ever known, and he convinced us that "by the Eternal"

"we had one President who wasn't constitutionally eligible. It is too bad that Joe died before he could publish the inside low-down on what he had dug up about a man who was so great that it would easily take the combined efforts of North and South Carolina and Erin to produce him."

Representative Lowrey, of Mississippi, admits the soft honorarium impeachment and has no apology to make. As Artemus Ward would say, "the Constitution must be preserved."

It is indeed gratifying not to note among the names of the new board of public welfare that of any members of the well-known New York Butinski family.

Turkey nips a plot to assassinate Mustapha Kemal. That man is getting more and more like a Sultan every day.

It is rumored that some of the more sensitive statesmen are thinking of dropping the title Hon.

The daily grist of news is a wonderful thing, full of spice and variety, and continually upsetting tradition—now here are two smart horses, who smash a door and escape from a burning barn, and they don't turn around and rush back, either. Can you beat it?

The Nats decide to take a game,
And win out in the extra frame,
And yet, although we speak no blame,

The thrill we get is not the same.

Let us hope that the Turks will not go in for pews and pipe organs and permit the wearing of shoes in their places of worship. Those who have seen the devout Musselman bathe his feet in the fountain in the courtyard of the mosque and approach barefooted his shrine, there to prostrate himself, touching the earth with his forehead, has had a worth-while lesson in hygiene and physical culture.

But to whom did the late Louis Sherry bequeath his receipt for making lobster Newburg?

Brand steps aside as Herriot undertakes to organize a radical government, and it is understood that Senator Smoot can't decide just which waste basket to use for the debt settlement.

The spectacle of Wayne B.
Wheeler cooling his heels for six hours at a committee hearing is significant of an interesting psychological change at the Capitol—until now it has been Mr. Wheeler who kept Senators on the anxious seat.

The Preston Gibsons are in mourning—Fido passed away at 6
p. m.

Something brewing before the Alcoholic Liquor committee today, boys—Mr. LaGuardia will show you how to get 2.75 per cent. beer without going to jail. The line, as Earl Carroll would say, forms on the right.

The only regret the average American feels is that Peru probably won't be able to give Chile
what she has coming to her.

The total Republican expense in the recent auction in Pennsylvania approaches the $3,000,000 mark.
Self government comes high but we must have it.

NINE ARE APPOINTED TO WELFARE BOARD BY COMMISSIONERS

J. J. Edson and Dr. Kober on Group to Direct City's Social Work.

OLD BODIES DRAWN ON FOR MEMBERSHIP

Meet July 1 for Organization;
G. M. Wilson Likely Chief Executive Officer.

Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph yesterday announced the names of the nine men and women who are to compose the new board of public welfare. The board, which will have jurisdiction over all social welfare work in this city, will begin to function July 1. The appointments follow:

For a two-year term: Dr. George
M. Kober, dean of the Georgetown university medical school and a member of the board of charities;
Mrs. Emmett J. Scott, wife of Dr.
Scott, secretary-treasurer of Howard university; Edward J. New-comb, of the Congress Heights Citizens association.

For a four-year term: John Joy Edson, chairman of the board of charities; Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, formerly a member of the board of trustees of the National Training School for Girls; W. W. Millan, president of the board of children's guardians.

Named for Six Years.

For six-year term—Frederick W.
McReynolds, of the Board of Children's Guardians; former Judge Michael M. Doyle, of the Board of Children's Guardians; and Mrs.
Charles Goldsmith, prominent in Jewish social welfare work.

These will hold an organization meeting Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in room 321 of the District building. They will elect a chairman, a vice chairman and a secretary and will set a date for the first formal meeting. Under the law creating the board the members must hold at least nine meetings a year.

The commissioners must yet appoint a director of public welfare, an office provided by law. He will be the chief executive officer of the board and will be charged with the executive and administrative duties of the board. He will be subject to the supervision of the board and may be dismissed on the recommendation of the board.

Wilson Is Likely Secretary.

George M. Wilson, secretary of the Board of Charities since its creation in 1909, is expected to be appointed director of public welfare.
He probably will receive a salary of $5,200 a year, the same as he is now receiving. It has been reported at the District building that former Senator L. Heister Ball, of Delaware, is a candidate for the job.

The different terms of the nine members was decided by drawing names from a hat. In time, all appointments will be for six years.
Dr. Kober and Mr. Edson were reluctant to accept appointment to the board, and only consented after Commissioner Rudolph and friends had convinced them that their in-imate knowledge of welfare problems, gained during their long

Girl's Neck Broken

In Auto; 3 Boys Held

Johnstown, Pa., June 18 (By A.
P.).—Three youths were held by police today in connection with the death of Miss Mary Elizabeth Bogan, 16, who died last night from a broken neck suffered, police said, during a struggle with the boys in an automobile. Those under arrest are Joseph O'Brien, Frank Cutre and Robert Simmons, the latter a stepbrother of the dead girl. A physician reported to police the girl was dead when the youths brought her to his office.

Fishing Skiff Upsets;

3 Drowned, 1 Saved

Honor, Mich., June 18 (By A.
P.).—Three men drowned and a fourth was washed ashore and revived when a light skiff in which the men had set out to gather their fish nets capsized in Lake Michigan off Otter Beach early today.

Those who drowned were Harry Sheriff, 32; Harold Cox, 25, and Harry Farquhar, 30. Farquhar's body has not been recovered.
George Sheriff clung to the overturned boat and was washed ashore.

COL. A. HOPKINS, LEADER IN PHILANTHROPIES, DIES

Was 85 Years Old and Son of Famous Educator; Distinguished in Civil War.

LONG WITH CLAIMS COURT

Col. Archibald Hopkins, retired, for many years a prominent figure in legal circles of the Capital and widely known as a leader in philanthropic enterprises, died shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at his residence, 1826 Massachusetts avenue. Although Col.
Hopkins had been in delicate health for some years, his death was unexpected. He became acutely ill Monday.

Col. Hopkins was in his eighty-fifth year, having celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday on February 20 last. Born in Williamstown, Mass., a son of the late Mark and Mary Hubbard Hopkins. His father was president of Williams college and he entered that institution early in life, being graduated with high honors in 1865. In the meantime, the civil war had broken out, and the young man did not allow his studies to interfere with patriotism.

Entering the Union army in 1862,
he served successively as captain, brevet major, lieutenant colonel and colonel of the Thirty-seventh Massachusetts volunteers. Under the reconstruction acts he served in 1866 as a government officer, returning to college and taking a degree of law at Columbia university the following year. In 1878 Col. Hopkins married Charlotte Everett Wise, of Washington, to which city he had come upon his appointment as clerk of the United States Court of Claims in 1873.

Seven years of law practice in New York after his admission to the bar in 1867 had made the young lawyer thoroughly conversant with the legal work and he soon achieved distinction in his new position. Col.
Hopkins remained with the United States Court of Claims until 1914, when he resigned as chief clerk.
Chief Justice Campbell and members of the Washington bar paid tribute to Col. Hopkins' ability and diligence during his term of office and delivered speeches of regret upon the latter occasion.

Col. Hopkins was one of the three founders of the Washington chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution.

CRAIG BIDDLE WEDS

MRS. J. P. WILMERDING

New York Friends Told by

Cable of the Marriage

in London.

New York, June 18 (By A. P.).
Craig Biddle, millionaire sportsman of Philadelphia and New York, today in London married Mrs. Josephine Peet Wilmerding, according to a cablegram received here by friends.

Mr. Biddle's first wife, who was Miss Laura Whelan, of Philadelphia, died in 1925. The present
Mrs. Biddle was divorced from Cuthbert Mortimer Wilmerding in 1917.

Mr. Biddle, who lived here with his two sons, Craig Biddle, Jr., and George Drexel Biddle, sailed for England in March to join his daughter, Mrs. William Rhineland Stewart, Jr., who had been seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Biddle will pass the summer in Europe.

FENNING RETURNS BOND COMMISSIONS TO 14 OF HIS WARDS

Announces Intention to Repay Fees Dating Back to 1913.

LIEUT. ALLEN GETS HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Guardian's Counsel Urges Committee to Ignore Rankin's Brief.

Commissioner Fenning yesterday began the process of returning his bond commissions to his wards in line with the decision recently handed down by Justice Siddons of the District Supreme court.

The commissions which have been one of the strongest points of the attack against him amount to 25 per cent of the premium which the ward was charged in each instance.

At the request of his attorney,
W. W. Millan, orders were issued by Chief Justice McCoy, of the District Supreme court, crediting the commissions to fourteen of his wards. It is the announced purpose of Mr. Fenning to have every one of his wards so credited. It will be quite an undertaking, as Mr.
Fenning has been receiving the commissions since 1913. Many of his wards have died and the guardian-ships of others have been transferred.

Range From $5 to $33.26.

As indicative of the amount of the commissions, in the first eight cases submitted to the court the fees ranged from $5 to $33.26. All except three were more than $25.

A writ of habeas corpus was procured from Justice Hoehling in behalf of Lieut. Frank D. Allen, U.
S. N., retired, one of Mr. Fenning's wards. Allen has been challenging his commitment ever since he was sent to St. Elizabeths hospital on an order of the Navy Department about a year ago. Attorney George F. Curtis procured the writ, which calls for a hearing June 25.

Curtis contends that his client is not only sane, but that he is a resident of Albemarle county, Virginia, and that the local courts have no jurisdiction over him. Allen protested his sanity before the House District subcommittee.

Believed Brother Insane.

His sister, living in Norfolk, Va., testified before the House judiciary subcommittee that she believed him to be insane and Allen's brother testified that hospital authorities had told him last year shortly after Allen's commitment that it was a "90 day case" and that an operation would have to be performed immediately.

Frank J. Hogan, attorney for Mr.
Fenning, read a telegram before the

Firemen Set Blazes

To Show Efficiency

Mineola, N. Y., June 18 (By A.
P.).—Accused of setting ten fires in Rockville Center to demonstrate the superiority of Defender hose company in arriving at a fire before a rival outfit, two officers and two firemen of the company were indicted today on charges of arson.

No bail has been fixed for the firemen, who are in jail here and whose confessions, said to have been signed by the men, were presented to the county grand jury.
The indicted men are Capt. Fred Pearsall, Second Lieut. W. H. Kruger and Firemen Charles Vitanza and George L. Pearsall.

Swedish Crown Prince

Films Photographers

Salem, Mass., June 18 (By A. P.).
Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, who has been trailed by press photographers and motion picture camera men ever since he came to America, turned the tables on his pursuers today.

While visiting "the house of seven gables" here he went to the garden in the rear. Once more he was confronted with clicking shutters. As if in self-defense, the prince reached into the pocket of his top-coat, pulled out a little motion picture camera and trained it on the small army of photographers and newspaper men. He "shot" the entire group before he desisted.

$3,000,000 EXPENSE OF PENNSYLVANIA'S G. O. P. PRIMARIES

Nomination Cost Vast $600,000, Inquiry's Reports Show.

$1,631,242 PAID OUT IN PEPPER CAMPAIGN

Pinchot Spends $195,000;
Senate Body Inquires Into
New Fund of $175,000.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 18 (By A.
P.).—Expenses of the Republican primary in Pennsylvania last month approached the $3,000,000 mark in figures compiled here today from accounts filed with the State bureau of elections.

The senatorial contest in which Representative William S. Vare defeated Senator George Wharton Pepper and Gov. Gifford Pinchot showed a total close to $2,500,000, with the computation incomplete.
The accounts filed by gubernatorial candidates added more than $225,- 000 to this sum.

Expenditures in behalf of the Vare candidacy, which had been estimated at $595,000 in testimony before the United States Senate committee investigating campaign funds, were boosted $16,806 by an account filed for the Ralph Beaver Strassburger modification committee for William S. Vare, senator.

The Vare campaign committee's account has not been filed.

Expenses totaling $1,631,242 were shown in reports filed by the larger committees, which spent money in support of the ticket headed by Senator Pepper.

The expenditures of Gov. Pinchot's campaign, including those of county committees, were estimated at $195,000 in testimony before the senatorial investigators in Washington.

(By the Associated Press.)

Turning aside temporarily from the political activities of the Anti-slavery league, the Senate campaign fund committee received evidence yesterday of an additional expenditure of approximately $175,000 in behalf of the Pepper-Fisher coalition ticket in the recent Pennsylvania Republican primary.

While these expenditures were being inquired into, the committee made a side excursion in a vain effort to trace to its origin a spurious letter published by the Pepper-Fisher committee in western Pennsylvania over the signature of President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, endorsing John S. Fisher for governor.

Philadelphia Public Ledger the com-

RETIRED MERCHANT

KIDNAPED AND SLAIN

Robbery Is Believed to Have

Been Motive of Killing

at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 18 (By A.
P.).—The body of Jacob Bender-son, wealthy retired merchant, was found by a watchman today in the ash pit of a furnace in the cellar of a vacant building at Swan and Center streets. Police believe the victim was kidnaped, robbed and murdered by persons who were frightened away before carrying out their plan to destroy the evidence of their crime by burning the body.

Benderson disappeared last Tuesday after visiting the Liberty Bank where he made a deposit. Whatever money he carried had been removed and a diamond ring worth $1,000 also was taken by the slayers, who evidently thought their victim had drawn money from the bank instead of depositing a large sum.

Dog's Death Mourned

By Preston Gibson

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Paris, June 18.—Preston Gibson, of New York and Washington, and his wife, formerly Evelyn Spaulding, of Boston, are in deep mourning and have canceled all social engagements following the death of their pet wire-haired terrier, Diana, killed by an automobile.

Cards announcing the animal's death were sent out and an elaborate funeral and burial in the dog cemetery at Suresnes are being arranged with a tiny dog coffin and tombstone for the grave.

CITY, STATE AND NATION EXTEND WARM WELCOME TO LEGATE OF THE POPE

Coolidge's Letter to Eucharistic Congress Calls U. S. Religious

Gov Small, Mayor Dever and Secretary Davis Speak in Chicago.

Chicago, June 18 (By the Associated Press).—The letter of President Coolidge to the Eucharistic congress reads as follows:

"Your Eminence:

"The invitation to attend the Eucharistic congress, extended through you has been received.
I regret that my engagements are such at this time, looking after those matters which naturally arise at the end of a session, that it is impossible for me to accept."

"It is reported to me that this will probably be one of the largest religious gatherings of recent days held in America. Our country has long been under the imputation of putting too much emphasis on material things. Perhaps we have been the subject of that kind of criticism, not so much because we are really more interested in material prosperity than others, but because in that direction we have been more successful than others.
But, no doubt, a most conclusive answer to such criticism lies in the fact material prosperity can not be secured unless it rests upon spiritual realities. It is impossible to create a commercial system which is not built on credit, confidence and faith.

Without the elements of honor and honesty there can be no economic advance. If the requirements of character be withdrawn from our business structure, the whole fabric would collapse.

"The same principle applies to our government. The day of the despot has passed. No country attempts to rely on force, but on reasons to justify its institutions.
No government can long endure unless its people are convinced that it is a righteous government. If our country has achieved any political success, if our people are attached to the Constitution, it is because our institutions are in harmony with their religious beliefs."

"It is for these reasons that the religious life of the nation is so important. Its free exercise is guaranteed by the fundamental law of the land. If America is advancing economically, if it is the abiding place of justice and freedom, it is because of the deep religious convictions of its people.

"Very cordially yours,

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Chilean Marines Patrol the Streets After Plebiscite

Is Abandoned.

ENVOY SEES KELLOGG

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Santiago, June 18.—The Chilean government practically has placed Tacna-Arica under martial law, and is arranging to send troops to Arica.
Marines from the cruiser O'Higgins are patrolling the streets, protecting the residence of Mag. Gen. Laster and the homes of other Americans.

Meanwhile Chile is preparing to publish a complete statement in reply to a Peruvian book announced by Lima, and Valparaiso and Santiago are preparing warm welcomes for Augustin Edwards and other members of the Chilean delegation, who are expected in a few days.

Canada Plans Curb

On Liquor Smuggling

Ottawa, Ontario, June 18 (By A.
P.).—Sweeping measures to curb smuggling on the Canadian border and to prevent the clearance of ships carrying liquor from a Canadian port to the United States were recommended today in a report handed down by a special house of commons committee.

Pending reorganization of the customs service, the committee recommended that the royal Canadian mounted police be immediately detached for patrol work on the bor-

Pat Somerset Named

In Divorce of Actor

New York, June 18 (By A. P.).
Pat Somerset, English actor who four years ago faced deportation on the grounds of moral turpitude, was named correspondent in an uncontested divorce action filed by A. R.
Gallagher, also an actor, in Brooklyn supreme court today.

Somerset was said by witnesses to have lived with Bertha Irene Martin Gallagher, the defendant, for several weeks in Los Angeles last summer. Justice Dunne reserved decision in the action, which was instituted last fall.

Poor Phone Service

Blamed for Death

old, of the coast guard service of Thursday when his motorcycle collided with Edelen's automobile at with Secretary Kellogg, and is believed to have informed him that Chile regards diplomatic negotiations for settlement of the Tacna-Arica controversy with Peru automatically terminated by abandonment of the plebiscite.

The Ambassador called at the State Department just before Mr.
Kellogg went to the White House for the semi-weekly cabinet meeting. White departmental and embassy officials declined to discuss the conference, the general assumption was that the Ambassador handled the Secretary a note, sent from Santiago, setting forth Chile's position and there was manifest concern over the prospect of American intervention completely collapsing.
After Mr. Kellogg had had opportunity to discuss the situation with President Coolidge, it was stated at the White House that the President, as arbiter, saw nothing that could be done toward adjusting the controversy until the effect of recent developments in the arbitration and mediation negotiations could be established.

DETECTIVE BARBEE DEMOTED BY BOARD

Hesse Reports He Has Outlived Usefulness as Plainclothes Officer.

Detective William J. Barbee, of the Second precinct, was demoted to the rank of a uniformed patrolman by order of the District commissioners yesterday. In announcing the demotion, the commissioners said that he had nothing to do with Barbee's recent criticism of Mrs. Rebekah Greathouse, assistant district attorney. Barbee charged that she failed to cooperate with him in prosecuting liquor cases.

The commissioners demoted Barbee after Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, reported to them that he had "outlived his usefulness as a plain clothes officer." Barbee was recently acquitted by the police trial board of a charge of intoxication.

HERRIOT IS SEEKING CABINET AT PARIS; BRIAND QUILTS TASK

Radical Leader Is Blamed for the Failure of Recent Premier's Efforts.

LEFT COALITION GROUPS MAY FORM A MINISTRY

Finance Office Is Offered to M. Bokanowski, Member of Caillaux Mission.

Paris, June 18 (By A. P.).—Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical party, who was premier of France from June, 1924 to April, 1925, has again been summoned to the premiership, and he is trying to constitute a ministry. The summons came late today after M. Briand had informed President Doumergue that he was unable to form his tenth cabinet after two days' negotiations to solve the ministerial crisis.

M. Briand gave up the difficult job when M. Herriot had finally decided that the attitude of the radical group in the chamber of deputies prevented him from entering a concentration ministry such as M. Briand was trying to set up. The outgoing premier, in a declaration made after announcing his decision to President Doumergue, placed the responsibility for his failure clearly on M. Herriot. Former President Poincaré, he explained, was ready to enter a combination ministry to assume the formidable responsibilities of the ministry of finance. But M. Herriot withdrew at the last moment. Being unable to form a government that could grapple with the serious financial problems facing the country, without being hampered by political quarrels, M. Briand had decided to renounce the task of forming a new cabinet.

Will Rely on the Left. Instead of forming a concentration ministry, M. Herriot is expected to rely on the left coalition groups with possible inclusion of the group of left republicans, which would add about 40 votes to his former majority in the chamber. He is credited with the intention of offering the finance portfolio to M. Bokanowski, who was a member of

SCENE OF GREAT EUCHARISTIC PROCESSION

The first eucharistic congress ever held in the United States, which opens tomorrow in Chicago will be the most spectacular religious pageant ever celebrated in the Christian world. The Church of St. Mary of the Lake and its grounds, which will be the center of Thursday's ceremonies, are pictured. The insert shows Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, who has come from Rome to participate in the event as the personal representative of the Pope.

The Caillaux debt mission to the United States. The governmental program of the new cabinet is expected to be little different from that of the previous ministry headed by M. Herriot, since he is obliged to rely on the support of the socialists for his majority.

M. Herriot's consultations after he was called to the premiership indicated that M. Chaumières, his old minister of interior, M. Maivy, who resigned from the interior post in the Briand cabinet not so long ago; M. Daladier, former minister of war, and M. Dumesnil, former minister of the navy, are likely to be included in the cabinet.

CITY, STATE, COUNTRY GREET PAPAL LEGATE

Secretary Davis said. "I extend the welcome of the republic to the legate. When a million souls from all parts of the world make a pilgrimage of the extraordinary character which is now being witnessed in this city, it is proof, if proof be needed, that religion is neither dead nor moribund in the heart of man. This gathering is a demonstration that the light of faith is still burning with no diminution of its luster."

Lauds Religious Liberty. "You have found, and I hope you will always find in America—no matter what conditions may prevail in other sections of this hemisphere—the freedom which you require to teach your faith to young and old."

Cardinal Bonzano in his response spoke in part: "At this time, in the name of his holiness, Pius XI, in the name of all the Catholics of the world, from the depth of my grateful soul, I thank you, excellency, for the honor and through you, the other officials of the State and city, and your fellow citizens, for this expression of esteem, which will gladden the heart of the sovereign pontiff, that venerable man, whom more than 300,000,000 of people look with veneration to as a father and teacher."

"From a booklet setting forth very briefly the growth of Chicago, I have learned that its population has nearly 50,000 students and that $50,000,000 are expended annually for the education of the 400,000 children in your public schools. To this must be added the contributions of private organizations, those of the Catholics and a number of others, who build and maintain their own schools."

Expressed By President. "The reason for this self-imposed burden was expressed by President Coolidge, the illustrious chief executive of your nation, some months ago, when he said: 'An intellectual growth will only act toward confusion unless it is accomplished by a moral growth.' I do not know of any source of moral power than that

Notes of the Eucharistic Congress

Chicago, June 18 (By A. P.).—A British delegation headed by the Most Rev. Frederick W. Keating arrived here tonight.

A delegation from Colombia, unable to speak a word of English, arrived at Union station today, only to find the reception committee side-tracked and a newspaper reporter the only person present to welcome them. He used up his limited Spanish vocabulary and reverted to his even more limited Latin to direct them to congress headquarters.

The Eucharistic congress in Chicago is the greatest event in the history of the Catholic Church since the crusaders, Count Rene Breidbach of Brussels, Belgian member of the permanent committee, declared today.

A final draft of traffic regulations for the downtown district during the congress eliminates all parking in a district of approximately five square miles adjacent to the business section between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. During the same hours only public carriers will be permitted in the district.

An "inundating wave of spirituality" has overcome the best minds of the country, said Louis Ernest Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Paris, in an interview. "Intellectuals are greatly increasing in our ranks," he said, "largely because of the Eucharistic congresses held in or near France in past years."

Cablegram greetings from King Alfonso of Spain and from the chancellor of Austria to the primates of their countries, today emphasized the interest that Europe is taking in the congress here.

Former Chancellor Selpel said his cablegram denied news dispatches from Vienna, that the country was having a political disturbance. "It is only an interparty difference," the former president said, "like a family quarrel somewhat. They did not ask me to come back nor is there any need for it."

Four hundred doctors and 200 nurses will be at hand during the services at Mundelein. A base hospital, twelve first-aid stations and two hospital interurban cars have been prepared.

Thirty telegraph wires will carry the news of the congress from Mundelein.

Engineers say that the amplifying devices installed at Mundelein, Ill., are the largest ever put up. Forty-five horns, capable of magnifying the voice almost a million times, are being used.

From Portugal today came Manuel Vieira de Matos, primate of that country and archbishop of Braga, with a delegation of clergy and lay pilgrims, while from Venezuela came Miguel A. Mejia, bishop of Guayama.

While the congress is being opened in Holy Name cathedral next Sunday, William Henry Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, will celebrate solemn pontifical high mass on Lake Michigan, off the port of Chicago. Cardinal O'Connell comes with 500 New England Catholics aboard the steamer South American. Before landing he will celebrate the first service of his kind ever conducted on the lake.

Twenty thousand persons, Chicagoans, visitors, Catholics and non-Catholics, filed through Holy Name cathedral yesterday evening to see the gorgeous decorations and the brilliant lighting effects.

Pius XI, the greatest and most potent living spiritual and moral force in all the world.

Solemn Rites Begin. The series of masses which will mark the devotional rites of the congress was inaugurated today by services before three altars by as many European cardinals.

Cardinal O'Donnell, of Ireland, celebrated solemn pontifical high mass at the chapel of the Immaculate Conception. Cardinal Piffli, archbishop of Vienna, was celebrant at St. Clement's German Catholic church, and Cardinal Charost, of France, officiated in Notre Dame church. Several hundred distinguished laymen worshiped before the altar at which Cardinal O'Donnell officiated.

Thousands of clergy and lay continued today to swell the number of congress visitors, special trains from all directions adding thousands to the hosts carried to the city on regular schedules.

3,000 Priests Hearing Throng's Confessions

Special to The Washington Post. Chicago, June 18.—The hearing of confessions to prepare thousands of Chicago Catholics and pilgrims to the congress for the reciving of communion Sunday morning, has been in progress for the last two days, and will reach its zenith tomorrow night. In many of the churches confessions will be heard tomorrow night until the penitents stop coming. Thousands of pilgrims en route by rail will be given the opportunity of going to confession on their trains. It is estimated that more than 3,000 priests will be required to accommodate those wishing to receive the sacrament.

Mystic Shrine Head Welcomes Congress. Special to The Washington Post. Chicago, June 18.—E. Edwin Mills, potentate of Medinah temple, Mystic Shrine, was among prominent non-Catholics who today extended greetings and good wishes to the offices of the Eucharistic congress.

"We welcome these people who come here to pay a tribute of faith and devotion to the great Christian ideal," he said. "It is only upon the foundations of justice, truth and tolerance that real progress can be made, and these are the foundations of our country."

EUCHARIST PILGRIMS LEAVE CITY TODAY ON 3 SPECIAL TRAINS

Each Will Have Chapel Car With Altar for Masses Tomorrow Morning.

400 LOCAL CATHOLICS TO MAKE CHICAGO TRIP

Largest Capital Delegation Will Combine at Baltimore With Group There.

Three separate pilgrimages on as many special trains will leave here today for the International Eucharistic congress in Chicago, which formally opens tomorrow in the Holy Name cathedral.

Each train will have a chapel car equipped with an altar, and in these cars mass will be said en route early tomorrow morning. This is one of the unusual features of the pilgrimages.

Approximately 400 local Catholics will make the pilgrimage in the three units. The largest delegation, which will comprise about 200 persons, will be under the direction of Harry S. O'Neill, 1407 W. street northwest, and will combine at Baltimore with the delegation from that city.

Editor-Clergyman in Charge.

This pilgrimage is under the spiritual direction of the Very Rev. Alfred E. Smith, editor in chief of the Catholic Review, of Baltimore, which is sponsoring it.

Mass will be celebrated by the pilgrims at 9 o'clock this morning in the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, 1407 W. street. Visitors who will accompany the delegation will then be shown about the city until noon, when the train leaves Union station.

Besides the large number of laymen, the Rev. Thomas E. McGowan, pastor of St. Paul's church, and the Rev. J. M. McNamara, pastor of St. Gabriel's church, will be in the delegation.

The special train, which leaves over the Pennsylvania railroad, comprises twelve cars. The chapel car will be added at Fort Wayne, Ind., and the train will be stopped at Plymouth, Ind., for 30 minutes for mass.

Sodality Union Has Delegation.

A special train will leave over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at 2 o'clock this afternoon carrying a delegation of the Sodality Union, headed by Miss Mary Mattingly, president. Provision has been made for 175 persons. The chapel car will be stopped at Walkerton, Ind., for devotional services.

The Rev. Leo J. Fealy, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, is spiritual director of the group.

At 2:10 o'clock a train will leave over the Baltimore & Ohio carrying a delegation from St. Joseph's parish. The pilgrims will wear medallions bearing the imprint of the Capitol. The Rev. E. P. McAdams, pastor of St. Joseph's church, and his assistant, the Rev. Joseph T. McGowan, will serve as spiritual directors.

Itinerary services were held in the church last night. Accommodations have been arranged for 130 persons. The train will be stopped at Garrett, Ind., for mass tomorrow morning.

Seek Chicago By 10 A. M.

The aim of all the delegations is to reach Chicago by the time the congress formally opens at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. One reason services will be held on the trains is the unusual congestion which is expected to present formidable obstacles in Chicago.

The delegations, however, are no proper indication of the travel from Washington to Chicago for the congress, train officials declare. The Capitol Limited has been running for the last two days in three sections, it is declared. A large number of Catholics have gone individually.

Prince-Cardinal Blesses Reporters; Keeps Dry Law. Chicago, June 18 (By A. P.).—Observing his seventy-fourth birthday anniversary, his eminence, John Cardinal Cernock, primate of Hungary, today invoked a divine blessing upon the press of America, and blessed in person reporters from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago, who interviewed him. He is the oldest of the members of the College of Cardinals, and has been a cardinal fourteen years.

Declining to pass any judgment on prohibition as it is in America, Cardinal Cernock said that as it is "the law of the land, it should be respected, especially by guests."

"Our wine in Hungary," he continued, "is as good as it was before the war, but we have no market for it."

"Hungary is very grateful to America, most especially to that part of America from which the

BUSINESS PROSPERITY.

The optimists who early in the year prophesied a highly prosperous condition in business are making good. The steel industry, recognized as an almost unflinching barometer of general business conditions, is in better shape than for several years past. United States Steel common on Thursday reached a new high on the market, rising 2 points to 139 1/2. Wall street, it is reported, experienced a most sensational revival of the bull market which began with the election of President Coolidge. Dozens of other stock issues attained new high prices for the year. General Electric spurted to 348 1/2, an advance of 63 1/2 points over the March low. The rise in steel represented a total appreciation of approximately $90,000,000 from the lowest point of the year, and General Motors came within 2 points of the highest level at which it has ever sold.

The bullish demonstration on the stock exchange reached proportions that dwarfed anything in the way of activity and rising prices since the upward movement in February.

Students of the market insist that the upward trend recently means a continuation of prosperity, and is proof of the falsity of the claims of the calamity howlers.

Undoubtedly there has been a marked revival in business. For the first time this year the balance of trade was in favor of America in May, exports exceeding imports by several millions.

The Department of Labor reports that an analysis of the industrial survey for May shows that the country is on a satisfactory employment basis. Unemployment still exists in the textile and shoe industries and there was a slight recession in iron and steel, but there has been a general improvement in metal and machinery industries. In the automotive industrial centers conditions are better than they have ever been since the war. While employment fell off in the bituminous coal fields, the anthracite regions are working at full production. Road construction and municipal improvements have contributed largely to the reduction of unemployment. Demand for permanent farm hands increased largely during May. Altogether the country shows a most satisfactory condition of business and industry.

You can say one good thing for money. It talks only when it's leaving.

AN AMERICAN MARINE.

Two interesting and important addresses were recently delivered by Commissioner W. S. Hill, of the United States Shipping Board, on the subject of the merchant marine. One address was before the middle West foreign trade committee at Cincinnati, the other before the Mississippi valley foreign trade conference at St. Louis.

Commissioner Hill took the viewpoint of the middle West and dwelt upon the need of an American merchant marine from the farmer's angle. He called attention to the lack of information among Western growers about ocean freight rates and to the fact that wheat raisers, for example, have been mulcted millions of dollars because of this ignorance.

An American merchant marine, owned by Americans and manned by Americans, is essential to the prosperity of the farmers in the great grain-growing areas of the country. But, as Mr. Hill points out, ships alone are not sufficient. If the country is to have a merchant marine, American shippers and all American citizens must get behind the proposition and see to it that American ships are employed to transport American commodities.

According to the Department of Commerce, American vessels are losing ground in the tonnage carried in the foreign trade. During the first ten months of this fiscal year American ships carried 38.56 per cent of inward cargoes as compared with 41.97 per cent during the corresponding months of last year; and 38.05 per cent of the outward cargoes as compared with 41.86 per cent for the corresponding months of last year.

During this same period this year the gross tonnage inward amounted to 56,382,000 as compared with 56,478,000 last year; while the gross outward tonnage this year amounted to 56,959,000, as compared with 57,643,000 last year.

Free speech isn't enough; what most zealots want is a law compelling others to listen.

PREVENTION OF DISEASE.

Bright's disease, dropsy, high blood pressure and heart ailments should no longer be regarded by the public as mysterious maladies practically incurable, but as afflictions which modern scientific methods can eliminate in the vast majority of cases. This is the cheering message that the Medical Society of New Jersey announced at its 160th annual meeting in Atlantic City.

Preventive medicine is making greater strides than ever before, and physicians in attendance at the Atlantic City meeting suggested that if the great mass of people would only make intelligent use of the medical knowledge they possess or that is within their reach without any great cost they could materially increase the average duration of life. It was stated that while there is an inherited vulnerability of different organs in different persons, the immediate cause of heart and kidney diseases, diabetes and other chronic ailments is infection of the blood from bad teeth, diseased tonsils, the appendix, or faulty elimination of waste matter.

Prevention of these numerous diseases must consist in the avoidance of early infections and in rational diet. Drugs play a minor part. Preventive medicine, it is asserted, is doing more to prolong life than anything else, and there is every reason to believe that still more thorough control of what have been regarded as chronic and virtually incurable maladies will be achieved within the next few years.

But why expect men to unite on religion when they can't on anything else?

PRIVATE FOREIGN LOANS.

Throughout the discussions of the several adjustments of the European government war debts it has been hinted that American private bankers have loaned money to Italy, France and other governments at a higher rate of interest and under better terms than were secured by the United States in its adjustment agreements.

So great has been this suspicion that the Senate adopted a resolution inquiring of the debt commission if any loans had been made to France recently by private banking houses. To this inquiry the Secretary of the Treasury, who is chairman of the commission, replied in the negative, "so far as can be ascertained."

A bit of history may be illuminating. Early in the administration of President Harding the government decided to keep itself fully informed as to further European borrowings from the people of the United States. On May 25, 1921, the President held a conference with the leading bankers of the United States, and it was agreed that no private loans should be made to European governments until the State Department had been consulted.

Early in 1925 the administration decided that it was against the best interests of the United States for private parties to loan money to any foreign governments that had failed to adjust their debts to the United States. This policy was justified on the ground that "our national interest demands that our resources be not permitted to flow into countries which do not honor their obligations."

France is the only country of any size that has not adjusted its war debt to the United States. The debt commission has agreed to a settlement with France, and the agreement awaits ratification here and in France. In the meantime no private American loans have been made to the French government.

From all the evidence obtainable it appears that private financial houses are above criticism in the manner they have aided in floating loans for European countries.

How poor doctors would be if they never were called except by those who need them!

COL. ARCHIBALD HOPKINS.

In the death of Archibald Hopkins the National Capital loses one of its most useful and patriotic citizens. Col. Hopkins had lived many years in Washington. From 1873 to 1914 he was clerk of the United States Court of Claims, and upon retiring from that position he was addressed by the members of the District bar as one of the ablest lawyers of Washington. Col. Hopkins was one of the three founders of the Washington chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution in 1889, and served as a director of the society until his death. He was also a trustee and one of the organizers of the Washington Society of Fine Arts.

Col. Hopkins' public services and public spirit commanded the admiration of all who knew him. He served in the civil war as captain and finally as colonel of the Thirty-seventh Massachusetts volunteers. He was admitted to the bar in New York in 1867 and practiced his profession until he was appointed clerk of the Court of Claims. He served in many honorary positions in Washington. He was a member of the board of directors of Garfield hospital, chairman of the Board of Associated Charities, a visitor to the United States Naval Academy, delegate to the international peace conference, and a trustee of the George Washington university.

In many ways Col. Hopkins was a representative citizen of the National Capital. His greatest pride was perhaps in his having been one of the founders of the Washington Society of Fine Arts. His father was Mark Hopkins, president of Williams college, the most distinguished of American educators.

As a civil war veteran Col. Hopkins felt a deep sympathy with his old comrades who had fallen into distress, and he was indefatigable in his efforts to obtain more adequate pensions for them.

To Mrs. Hopkins, who is also well known for her unselfish public spirit, the condolence of all Washington is extended on the loss of her life companion.

HYSTERICAL TARIFF TALK.

Enemies of the existing tariff enter upon the hysterical stage of discussion when they invite a coalition between the Democrats of the South and the Republican farmers of the West, in a united effort to "smash" the tariff of 1922. Such a coalition would be as futile as an attempt to mix oil and water.

The traditional enemies of the farmers of the West are the Democrats of the South. In 1913 they removed all the protection from Western farm products, but retained protection for rice, sugar and vegetable products raised in the South. They placed Western farm products on the free list, thus exposing them to competition from Canada and Europe. When they did not place Western farm products on the free list, they imposed such a low import duty as to amount to nothing.

The theory of the Southern Democrats in 1913 was that the Western farmers should be compelled to "sharpen their wits" by permitting foreign producers of farm products to enter the American markets and force prices down. This actually took place between October, 1913, and August, 1914, and between 1919 and 1921. Before the war American farmers suffered from excessive foreign competition. After the war imports of foreign wheat, mutton, lamb, wool, and other farm products increased rapidly. War protection was over; and the experiment of bringing prosperity to the farmers by submitting them to excessive foreign competition in the American markets was being tested. That was the period when the great decline of farm prosperity and farm values began.

It is ridiculous for the Democrats in Congress who helped bring about this state of affairs to invite the farmers of the West to form a coalition with their ancient enemies to "smash the tariff." The tariff was smashed, so far as the farmers were concerned, in the depressing period between 1919 and 1921.

The debate in the Senate now has reached the hysterical stage—the stage when reason departs and the facts of history are ignored. The farmers of the West have been fooled twice by the same folks who are now proposing the coalition—once in 1894, and again in 1913. It is reasonable to suppose they will not be fooled again.

The farmers have a monopoly of the American market by virtue of the tariff. That is worth a thousand times more than any other market.

Friends are people who have a common interest in the same unimportant things.

PERFORMANCES AT ASCOT.

The Ascot meeting came to an end yesterday. Despite fickle weather, it proved to be as great an attraction as ever. Rain or shine, there is about the royal meeting a glamour that age can not wither nor custom stale. A great social function, attracting to the inclosures and stands fair women and brave men from all parts of the globe, it is also, and essentially, a nonpareil racing fixture, at which all the crack thoroughbreds of the British Isles and France are expected and accustomed to put their best foot forward. The unusual value of the stakes competed for is, of course, a consideration with most owners, but it is the kudos attaching to the victory that gives the incentive and the greatest spur to the will to win.

The ins and outs of racing form were splendidly exemplified on Wednesday when Viscount Astor's Cross Bow, starting at the long odds of 33 to 1 against, won the Royal Hunt Cup from a field of 31 horses. In April of last year Cross Bow was second to Pizarro, winner of the Middle Park Plate and winter favorite for the Derby. This was a highly respectable performance, but Lord Astor's colt bettered it in May by getting home in front of eleven others in the Newmarket Stakes. These placings drew attention to his undoubted chance for the Derby, and as Pizarro, failing to stand the exigencies of training, was scratched, money poured in so liberally on Cross Bow for the Epsom race that he started actual favorite at 9 to 2 against. The oft-mentioned glorious uncertainty of the turf, as well as Astor luck so far as the Derby is concerned, was once more in evidence, and the Mantion candidate was not even in the first three. For this disappointment it was some compensation to be able to pull off a handicap so proverbially difficult to annex as the Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot.

The greatest of all the Ascot races is, however, that for the Gold Cup, always run on Thursday, or ladies' day. In addition to the handsome trophy, a miracle of the goldsmith's art, the prize money is value for $18,000. Here form worked itself out to a nicety this year, for the winner over the trying 2 1/2-mile track was the odds-on favorite, Solario, known universally to British patrons of the turf as "the lion of the lime kilns." Last September Solario beat a splendid field, including Manner and Pizarro, when he won the Doncaster St. Leger in easy style, and was thereupon acclaimed as the greatest 3-year-old of 1925. Not only is he a champion stayer, but he has also a great burst of speed. His easy victory was all the more noteworthy as his training was interrupted recently owing to shoulder trouble. So highly is he thought of that his owner, Sir John Rutherford, emphatically refused to sell him at a price of $500,000. Solario is evidently one of those rare horses which confer distinction on Ascot and on which Ascot, in turn, assuredly confers distinction.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by John J. King, of Texarkana, Texas. He is a Corporation Lawyer and Attorney for anything in the way of a Railroad that runs through that Country. But please don't like him just for that. He is what Writers try to Picture as the typical Southern Gentleman. He will be of special interest to everybody that ever went to a Theater, even if you haven't ridden on his Railroads, because he is a lifelong friend of Macklyn Arbuckle, the Actor. He and Macklyn used to have a law practice together down there.

I had the pleasure of being present at a mighty nice Luncheon there and Judge King made a dandy talk about his early associations with Macklyn. There used to be a famous Saloon there called the 16 to 1, and Macklyn called it the sixteen drinks to one meal. The Judge told the following story that happened to him and Arbuckle when they first had their law practice together.

Macklyn was running for County Judge and the firm hadn't reached the point of any Corporation business yet. In fact neither of them had even been prosperous enough to ride on a train. A newspaper Reporter got hold of it that Arbuckle and the Judge were splitting on account of Arbuckle running for office, so he called up to see.

"You can't and the Judge splitting up now?"

Macklyn answered, "You can't split nothing, can you?"

PRESS COMMENT.

Speaking of Gaul.
Arkansas Gazette: Although France admittedly can't pay her American debt for 62 years, and not all of it then, she wants to borrow an additional $300,000,000 from us. Speaking of Gaul!

Scenting the Battle.
Ohio State Journal: Now we see that a woman is supposed to use perfumery to match her moods and emotions, and we know one that will have to smell like a firecracker a good deal of the time.

Table Tipping.
Boston Transcript: Denial is made that "table-tipping seances" have been held at the White House, but there may have been a few sessions there in which platform plans were tilted.

The Quest for Thrills.
Philadelphia Record: There is too much appetite for thrills. A week or two ago six students in a Western college were arrested for burglary, and they explained that they didn't need the things they stole, but they wanted the thrill. And now some volunteer firemen have been arrested for arson, and the explanation is that they wanted the thrill of a fire. A crime in Chicago that attracted world-wide attention a couple of years ago was due to the fact that two young men wanted a thrill. This taste for thrills ought to be discouraged.

Trapping by Motor.
New York Sun: Trappers in British Columbia now run their lines by automobile instead of on foot. The picturesqueness of the wilderness will soon be enhanced by the establishment of filling stations on the trails of the fur bearers.

Water and Wine.
Brooklyn Eagle: France uses water as well as wine wisely. A River Creuse dam holding 13,500,000 gallons will give power to electricity railroads for 200 miles in every direction. Some 250,000 tons of coal a year will be saved. Which will do something toward saving the franc in the long run.

A Gloomy Outlook.
Detroit News: The rising tide of something or other is indicated in Cleveland, where an 11-year-old girl has just walked away with the city marbles championship.

One Job to Tackle.
Macon Telegraph: Seems that the League of Nations can't do anything to speak of about disarmament, but it might be able to check the disrobing of chorus girls at bathtub parties.

Chile's Menacing Attitude.
Baltimore Sun: The fact seems to be that Chile, being dominant in the area, is determined to stay there. That is the lesson of her conduct during the years of negotiation and of the terrorism alleged against her during the period of preparation for the plebiscite. It is improbable, to say the least, that she will now agree to either of the proposals lately made by Secretary Kellogg—that is, that the disputed area be neutralized or that it be turned over to Bolivia, thus giving the latter outlet to the sea.

This intriguing attitude on the part of Chile, sometimes called the Prussia of South America, is of course full of menace to the peace of the continent below us. At the same time, it may be noted, as partial compensation, that in the Argentine there are statesmen who feel that if Tacna-Arica keeps Chile constantly on guard she is less likely to disturb the peace in other directions.

A Horrible Example.
Philadelphia Record: The terrible evils of cigarette smoking can be seen in the Ludendorff family.

Rather Odd.
Indianapolis Star: It was rather odd of Dame Melba to retire without a final farewell tour.

Good Old Days.
Louisville Courier Journal: What a delightfully simple and old-fashioned day that was when Mark Hanna was being cartooned in a suit covered with dollar marks and "Check-Book Dick" had a drawing account of a paltry hundred thousand or so.

The Vikings.
Philadelphia Public Ledger: Sweden's crown prince has paid tribute to the Vikings at the old stone mill which Newport likes to believe is a landmark of the coming of Leif Ericsson. Even Horaford spent much of his lifetime trying to prove that the Vikings came ashore at Norumbega, on the Charles river. The range of speculation includes points as far north as Labrador and as far south as Virginia, for the location of that "Vineland" where grapes were found. At any rate, there can be little doubt that the

Can We Stay Civilized?

By GLENN FRANK

SOMETIMES we blandly and blindly assume that civilization is an unmixing blessing.

We think that the more civilized we are the safer we are. We think that savagery means extinction. We think that civilization means survival. But, in all this, we overlook the fact that civilization creates burdens as well as benefits.

The life of the savage is hard, but it is simple. Savagery makes few demands upon the savage. If he be endowed with fleetness of foot and sureness of aim, he may lead a fairly carefree life.

Civilization is a different story. Among civilized peoples, each succeeding generation makes the social surroundings of life more elaborate and intricate, increases the number of demands made upon mankind, and complicates generally the problem of living and working.

Our great grandfathers would be staggered by the complexity of the lives we lead in 1926 as compared with the simplicity of the lives they led.

The modern world is becoming so complicated that it is hard for the average man to find his way about in it.

Modern civilized society is certainly no South Sea island where we may pick bread fruit by the lazy lifting of a hand; the civilized modern must bear burdens, pull loads, and pick his way through a maze.

Every day we see individuals cracking under the strain.

Nervous disorders are on the increase. Is all this simply the story of weak individuals or is the whole race suffering, as Lothrop Stoddard suggests, from structural overloading?

Is there a limit to the complexity of life that a people can manage? Many biologists say that the biological strength of humanity is at a standstill or on the decline, that the burdens it must carry are on the increase, and that the time may come when civilization will collapse from overloading or when the people will revolt against civilization, blindly seeking some simpler and more manageable way of living.

There is fact as well as fear behind such statements, I think, and I venture the prophecy that during the next fifty years we shall see our more far-sighted leaders playing for a greater and greater simplification of the processes of industry, politics, and education.

Life is too cluttered for comfort—or for efficiency.

time, it may be noted, as partial compensation, that in the Argentine there are statesmen who feel that if Tacna-Arica keeps Chile constantly on guard she is less likely to disturb the peace in other directions.

Norsemen did anticipate Columbus. The Norsemen, like the Phoenicians, sailed a boat wherever a boat could go, and the restless spirit of Amundsen, Rasmussen or Nansen is the overtopping in our time of the fever that burned in the veins of Eric the Red and his shipmates bidding them sail, like Ulysses, beyond the rim of the known world.

There's the Rub.
Buffalo Express: Wyoming boasts that it has sufficient coal to supply the United States for 2,000 years. It has it if it can get permission from John Lewis to mine it.

Costly Water.
Cincinnati Enquirer: Congress plans to appropriate $26,000,000 for waterways. Almost as expensive as trying to get the patriots to stick to waterways.

They've Seen Darker Days.
Milwaukee Journal: After living through a general strike England naturally declines to become excited over a total eclipse of the sun in 1927.

Give Him a Pup.
Los Angeles Times: One community is trying to prove that the way to bring up a boy with a constant feeling of kindness to dumb animals is to provide him with a dog. If the child mind begins with an affection for a pup it will be considerate of tigers and elephants in after life.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Home and the School.
To the Editor of the Post—Sir: No thoughtful parents in the city want their children kept in school from 9 till 4 o'clock and perhaps a half day Saturday. The idea is absurd. Of course there are some tea-drinking, country-club habits who would like to delegate as much responsibility of parent hood to some one else as possible. The school has its purpose and so has the home. The two can not overlap. The old country schools had an hour for lunch; a big recess and a little recess giving the child two hours or two hours and a half recreation in the sunshine hours of the day—as important a part in the development of the child as the mental grind of the schoolroom.

It would be a heavy expense for the government to equip our city schools into day nurseries to relieve the parents that they may have more time for pink teas or secure fat government jobs; setting parenthood second in their lives and plans.

There are too many people in Washington sacrificing home obligations that they may hold down a job. The government is causing a home deterioration by employing so many young married women. Why all this agitation about "better homes" week, etc., when its purpose is disregarded at its very foundation?

Why are these things put in the school? Why are costly lectures and valuable time given to teaching sex hygiene in the schools when the sanctity of marriage and the home are the last things consistently taught? The board of education is sponsoring the greatest inconsistency when it employs so many young married women. My 13-year-old son came home dispirited after listening to a series of lectures on sex hygiene last fall. Why do we have to listen to that stuff? Why don't they practice what they preach? He referred to the fact that about one-fourth of the teachers employed in that junior high school were young married women avoiding the obligations of the married life to be able to draw a pay check each month.

So there are things being handled harmfully by the schools that should be left to the homes unless the schools can act more consistently. Women who hold other government jobs are ineligible to appointment in the city schools. Married women who have raised families honorably and who might be an inspiration for a rising generation are turned down as ineligible while those less capable of handling adolescent youth at its most inquisitive and impressionable age receive a life-time appointment. Let these people in power try to remedy conditions that involve morality and the well being of the students rather than make the schools an endurance test at the sacrifice of everything else.

Washington, June 18.

At Vassar.
Philadelphia Inquirer: An undergraduate magazine has been started at Vassar for the purpose of publishing learned studies on abstruse subjects. It is written by and for serious young women. What a contrast to the light, not to say trivial, aspect of most of the college publications for the other sex! Again the women are drivers and the men take the back seats.

PERSHING IS GREETED BY FRENCH CROWDS

Cherbourg Decorated With American Flags; Flowers Are Presented.

Cherbourg, France, June 18 (By A. P.).—An unusually cordial reception today greeted Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, when he landed from the Leviathan here today.

Gen. Pershing affirmed the strength of the comradeship among the allied veterans in his reply to the welcome. Veteran French soldiers and Admiral De Marguerie, commanding the port, received Gen. Pershing officially, while the 15-year-old daughter of one of the leading war heroes of Cherbourg, presented him with a bouquet.

"I am very deeply touched by this unexpected and cordial greeting," Gen. Pershing told his former comrades in arms. "I am especially pleased to receive this symbolic bouquet, mingling our national colors with our dear brothers in arms mingled their blood. Yes, the old comradeship of veterans exists and will remain unshakable."

Gen. Pershing later left for Paris by automobile.

DRY'S HONORARIUMS DRAW STATEMENTS IN HALLS OF CAPITOL

Lowrey Says That He Has No Apology for $60 Fee for Baltimore Speech.

WILLIS DENIES BEING ON LEAGUE'S PAY ROLL

Upshaw "Confesses" and Challenges Reed to Tell Earnings as Lawyer.

(By Associated Press.) Antislavery league "honorariums" for dry members of Congress, who take the stump for prohibition, became the center yesterday of another whirl of wet and dry discussion in Congress.

Much cloakroom speculation and several public statements resulted from Thursday night's testimony by Wayne B. Wheeler before the Senate campaign funds committee, in which he associated the names of four senators and four representatives with the League's policy of paying prohibitionist honorariums.

The statements were from some of those mentioned by Mr. Wheeler, and the explanations made were of widely different character. Representative Lowrey (Democrat), Mississippi, said it was true that he accepted a fee of $60 from the Maryland Antislavery league for making a dry speech in Baltimore, and had "no apology to make."

Willis Makes Denial.

Rising to a point of personal privilege in the Senate, Senator Willis (Republican), Ohio, said he had made speeches outside Ohio before he became a Senator, but that payment for them was made by the "committees" to which they were addressed. He never had been on the league's "payroll," he said, nor taken any money from the national organization.

Representative Upshaw (Democrat), Georgia, mentioned by Wheeler as having made many dry speeches for pay, said he "confessed" to accepting a modest honorarium. He called the honorarium "a modest honorarium," and called Senator Reed, of Missouri, Wheeler's cross-examiner, to "please enlighten the public how many thousands he has made trying famous cases since he became a senator." He also asked Reed to investigate the sources of income of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and cited instances in which he said the association and its members had been turning dry majorities into wet majorities in Maryland and Massachusetts.

Cooper Resents "Insinuations."

Likewise conceding he had taken "modest honorariums" from "local organizations or churches," Representative Cooper (Republican), Ohio, declared that Senator Reed's insinuations that senators and members of Congress were influenced to support the dry cause because of any speaking fees they have received is as far-fetched as it is contemptible.

Another statement growing out of the Wheeler testimony was issued last night by Representative Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, who said he had never received pay for any speeches from the Antislavery league, but had at times been paid his expenses when making addresses to local organizations, including churches and schools.

He said that sometimes these organizations added "a modest amount as an expression of their appreciation," but that for every speech he made, his expenses were paid. "I have made scores where I paid my own expenses."

In the midst of the continuing hum of discussion of Wheeler's testimony at the Senate end of the Capitol a minor end of members of the House judiciary committee made public a report attacking one of the administration's pending prohibition bills as a reversal of sound principles of law, and another House committee was preparing a beer-making demonstration by Representative La Guardia (Progressive-Socialist), New York.

The judiciary minority report, prepared by Representative Tucker (Democrat), Virginia, and signed also by Dyer (Republican), Missouri; Gorman (Republican), Illinois; Perlman (Republican), New York; and Weller (Democrat), New York, assailed that feature of the administration bill which would give the government to seize suspected rum-runners outside territorial limits. As written, the minority contended, the bill would assert jurisdiction over the ships of all nations on the high seas, and "such a claim will shock the nations of the world and will be challenged by every civilized country."

Little Prospect of Passage.

The bill, previously approved by a majority of the committee, is on the House calendar, but there is little prospect of action at this session of Congress. Congress has the probability that others of the administration's group of enforcement measures may fall in the final crush that precedes adjournment of Congress. Assistant Secretary Andrews said yesterday he would be greatly handicapped as enforcement chief if all these bills failed of enactment. He was particularly anxious to see action, he said, on the proposal for a separate prohibition bureau in the Treasury, and that to permit retired army officers to serve as prohibition officials.

Representative La Guardia's beer experiments are to be staged before the House alcoholic liquor traffic committee, which recently has undertaken an inquiry into some phases of prohibition. The New York representative has promised his colleagues he will show them how to get 2.75 beer without violating the law.

The talk about accepting fees from the Antislavery league ap-

Turks to Vote on Use Of Seats in Mosques

Angora, June 18 (By A. P.). A proposal is now before the grand national assembly to allow the installation of seats in Turkish mosques.

Heretofore Moslems squatted on floors of the mosque while they read their Koran, or prostrated themselves while they faced the east and chanted their prayers.

There is also a proposal before the Turkish parliament abolishing the custom among Moslems of removing their shoes before entering any place of worship.

It has been the practice among the Turkish faithful in the past to remove their shoes and stockings and bathe their hands and feet before entering the mosques, the floors of which always are covered with rich rugs and carpets.

Apparently there are indications that more of it will be heard before the end of the session. Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, recently drew up a bill to prohibit members of Congress from taking money for speeches on current legislative subjects, but even the friends of that proposal do not expect it to get very far toward enactment.

ACTRESS' SUICIDE SHOT DROWNED BY LAUGHTER

Mlle. Flory, French Star, Is Self-Slain in Theater of Sir Alfred Butt.

HAD ASKED ENGAGEMENT

London, June 18 (By A. P.).—Regina Flory, French revue actress and dancer, herself fired the shot which ended her life last night in the private office of Sir Alfred Butt, managing director of the Drury Lane theater, police learned today.

The sound of the shot was drowned in a burst of laughter from the audience at a humorous touch in the American musical comedy, "Rose Marie," which was being played on the stage. As a result no one in the audience or among the players knew of the tragedy.

Mlle. Flory was conversing with Sir Alfred when she suddenly produced a small automatic pistol from her handbag and fired a shot into her head.

Mlle. Flory had sought an interview with Sir Alfred for the purpose of obtaining a theatrical engagement. Letters found in her handbag indicated that she hoped for a prominent part either in "Rose Marie" or in a new play. She is described as always having been depressed.

West-end hotel and seemed to have plenty of money. She wore a beautiful evening gown and jewelry. It is understood that Sir Alfred made a long statement to the police.

Mlle. Flory once attempted to drown herself in the Seine after a rebuff by a young French actor with whom she fell in love. She also became a center of much discussion a year ago when she insured her jewelry for 2,000,000 francs.

A year ago she made a triumphal appearance in a French revue and danced and sang so charmingly that she was compared to Mistinguett.

Committee also sought to impeach the testimony of Frank X. O'Connor, defeated candidate for the congressional nomination in Philadelphia, who denied telling the newspaper men that the Vore organization had offered him first $75,000 and then $150,000 to withdraw from the race and throw his support to Representative William S. Vare for the Senate.

Wheeler Waits Six Hours.

While a succession of witnesses paraded to the stand Wayne B. Wheeler sat for six hours waiting to be called for a continuation of his encounter with Senator Reed (Democrat), Missouri, the chairman. After the committee adjourned for the day the Antislavery league counsel was informed that he would be heard again today.

Determined to get at the full amount of money spent in the Pennsylvania primary, the committee called for estimates for taking photographs of all returns from county as well as divisional committee, made to the Secretary of State of Pennsylvania. If this estimate is too high the committee either will go to Harrisburg or send a representative to examine the returns.

Outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, little information has been given to the committee as to money collected and spent by the county organizations, and with that information it will not be possible to cast up even an approximate total for the State.

Some new figures on county contributions were gathered yesterday through Eric Fisher Wood, chairman, and Vernon F. Taylor, treasurer, of the Pepper-Fisher committee for the 31 counties in western Pennsylvania outside of Allegheny.

These were not included in the returns filed at Harrisburg by Taylor and Senator Reed emphasized that point.

Counties Get Funds.

Taylor, a banker of Indiana, Pa., disclosed that he had sent approximately $7,750 into six counties, most of it at the suggestion of Wood, and $3,750 of it through him. Wood sent $900 personally into two coun-

ANSWERING QUESTIONS OF MR. PHILIPS' WATKINS, JR., BY H. HAYLER—SAN FRANCISCO.

HOUSE LIQUOR WITNESS HELD ON CHECK CHARGE

Self-Styled Retired Bootlegger Arrested in Alexandria for California Police.

SOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

William C. Davidson, alias William Calne, who appeared before the House alcoholic liquor traffic committee a few days ago, describing himself as a retired bootlegger, and declaring that banks were backing bootlegging operations, was arrested in Alexandria, Va., yesterday for the California police.

Davidson was arrested in a house in North Annapolis street by Headquarters Detective Edward Kelly and placed in the Alexandria jail. California police charged him with passing worthless checks for $4,000. Members of the House committee had been trying to get in touch with Davidson for the last three days to finish their questioning, but he was not located until after Chief of Detectives Henry Pratt had ordered a city-wide search following receipt of a message from San Francisco police that Davidson was wanted there for the alleged passing of more than $4,000 in alleged worthless checks.

The spurious letter published by the Western committee over Green's signature was brought to the attention of the committee by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, and both Taylor and Wood were quoted Tuesday in saying that the legislative agent of the labor federation, were questioned about it.

McGrady, who was sent to Pittsburgh by President Green to investigate, said William Tunstall, a former labor leader, had told him that he had written a letter with the identical language to President Green and sent a copy of it to the Pepper-Fisher headquarters. McGrady quoted Tunstall as saying that Green's signature had been substituted for his own and Wood's name substituted for that of Green at the head of the letter.

Ignorant of Letter.

Taylor knew nothing about the publication of the letter, but Wood said he had caused an investigation to be made, but had been unable to ascertain how the document came to be "planted" with the committee. The only copy he could find in the files was a printed one. He expressed regret over its publication by his committee.

With respect to the financial affairs of the western Pennsylvania committee, Wood said W. L. Mellon had contributed $18,000 besides the $1,000 sent to Erie county. The committee also borrowed $75,000 on notes from two Mellon banks in Pittsburgh, the Union Trust and the Mellon National, which are not yet due. There is a balance of approximately $50,000 to apply to that purpose.

Wood signed the notes and obtained the money, but Taylor said he understood that he was jointly liable with the chairman to make good their payment.

Chairman Reed also developed that Taylor, while swearing to the return sent to Harrisburg, was in reality only a "dummy" treasurer, as Wood countersigned all checks and looked after all of the financial affairs of the committee.

Green Says Letter Used In Primary Was Forged

Casper, Wyo., June 18 (By A. P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said here today that if the document could be fixed for the letter used in the Pennsylvania primary over his signature, urging support of John S. Fisher for governor, he would demand whatever legal redress was possible.

"The letter was pure forgery and issued without my knowledge or consent," he said.

Testimony regarding the letter was given before the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures today. Mr. Green said the American Federation of Labor, the Pennsylvania State Federation and the United Mine Workers had endorsed the candidacy of Gifford Pinchot several days before the publication of the letter.

committee, purporting to have been sent by Allen, to the effect, "cleaned up $17,000,000 today." At that, Allen has always seemed to have the knack of making money, his sister and brother testified, although not in the amount mentioned in the message.

Allen was the man, whom after arrangements had been made for him to be appointed guardian, Mr. Fenning had considerable difficulty in having adjudged insane. In the proposed insanity case, Fenning in Norfolk that his every effort to have his brother declared insane was without avail, and the case had gone over for two weeks.

Assail Rankin's Brief.

Frank J. Hogan, Thomas P. Littlepage and Levi Cooke, representing Mr. Fenning, wrote Chairman Graham, of the House judiciary committee, asking the committee to ignore the brief filed Thursday by Representative Rankin of Mississippi, in answer to the brief previously filed by defense counsel. It had been agreed, defense counsel said, that the briefs were to be confined to the law in the case.

"The proposed insanity brief," the letter said, "erroneously entitled 'brief' for the government and erroneously signed by Mr. Rankin as 'counsel for the government' and 'proponent of insanity,' with like erroneous titles, have attempted to lead largely with alleged facts. We say 'alleged facts' because these two briefs, as any one familiar with the record before your committee will immediately observe, are supported by the record. Indeed, a mere reading of proponent's briefs discloses references to matters with no iota of evidence in the record."

Mr. Rankin declared that every word of his reply brief was in answer to a question raised in the brief of defense counsel.

Hogan Reports One Complaint.

Subsequently, Mr. Hogan issued a statement calling attention to the shortness of Mr. Rankin's war service and to the fact that those criticized in the Mississippi brief. He also said:

"Mr. Rankin evades the indisputable fact that out of the 120 cases in which Mr. Fenning is at present guardian for insane wards, only one in case did any member of the family of any of these unfortunate men come forward with a complaint. In response to this the latest brief of Mr. Fenning and his counsel boast that little evidence has been produced of the complaints of his wards, and the brief asks how these insane wards could complain? We said nothing about the fact that the wards, if they are still warm, or sandwiches of several sorts. There may, of course, be olives, pickles, candies and nuts, and either a cake or a pie. For the bread, cold and hot, and milk, soda or even hot coffee may be provided, if, in the case of coffee, one possesses a thermos bottle."

A number of these recipes have been printed previously, but we are going today to prove the rule by making a first exception—and print the recipes necessary to the construction of our picnic, whether the fact be or not. There are, to be sure, many other foods that may be carried in a basket to a distant place and eaten under the wide blue sky. As we could not hope to suggest them all, we have selected for today these particular things, and shall at another time plan something else. I am saying this in reply to your note, Mrs. H. K. How could we plan all of the things appropriate for picnics or anything else at one time. Of

Reviews Rankin's War Record.

Mr. Rankin's "war record" about which he spoke, Mr. Hogan said, comprised a total service of one month and seven days in a training camp in Kentucky, the Mississippi Congressman having enlisted 20 days before the signing of the armistice although he was 35 years old, unmarried and practicing law when the United States entered the war.

Representative Rankin's attack on Dr. William A. White, head of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Mr. Hogan said, was made in spite of the clean bill of health given Dr. White by Representative Dyer, chairman of the judiciary subcommittee.

Replying to Representative Rankin's attack on Mr. Rudolph, Mr. Hogan declared that "the people of this community, among whom Mr. Rudolph has lived his life, whose interests he has served at great personal sacrifice, have, I am sure, nothing but contempt for any man, no matter what his station, who attempts to besmirch Cuno Rudolph's character."

Representative Rankin had "covertly attacked" Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District Supreme court, Mr. Hogan declared, adding that "it is almost amusing to remember that recently Mr. Blanton and Mr. Rankin, hailed a mere report of the auditor of the court as

A READER has reminded me that with the coming of summer we were to have, on Saturdays, an occasional plan for a picnic with suggestions for the construction of foodstuffs to take along that will not require lengthy preparation, and yet will take care of the needs of the inner man. So let us today prepare for a picnic, and at the same time we will add a menu that may, if you like, be carried out with the same materials that we plan for the picnic basket.

Chicken is an old friend that readily adapts itself to a picnic lunch, either fried or cold after it has been roasted. Chicken salad may also be prepared and packed in containers that will carry it in good condition to the scene of the festivities. And any of these dishes may, of course, be served at home if it should rain and the picnic be postponed.

Now for our picnic and the usual menu, and then the recipes to go with them.

Chill the salad packed in a glass jar and also several leaves of lettuce. When the salad is to be placed in the basket sheets of newspaper should be wrapped closely around it to keep out the heat. The lettuce may be loosely slipped into a large jar and a piece of ice added to the jar. It will, this way, have a good chance of being crisp when removed for the purpose of making up the salad which can be arranged either on the plates individually or in a bowl brought along for the purpose.

Deviled Eggs.

Hard boil a sufficient number of fresh eggs to supply possibly three halves to each member of the picnic party. When the eggs have cooled remove the shells and, having split them in half lengthwise, remove the yolks and mash the yolks in a bowl. Add to the yolks a few drops of onion juice, a few grains of cayenne (very fine), a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, and salt to taste. Mix the egg yolks up and add mayonnaise to make a smooth paste, and then lastly a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Repack the mixture into the white halves of egg and wrap each stuffed egg separately in oiled paper. The eggs may then be packed in a convenient corner of the basket, where there is no great danger of their being crushed with the jolting of the motorcar.

Sandwiches.

Sandwiches for our picnic may be of many sorts, but we cannot well give the directions for more than two of them here. Cheese sandwiches are usually acceptable, and if there are kiddies along jelly or jam between slices of buttered bread would probably not be amiss. If there is cold meat in the larger it will of course be a temptation to make use of it, but as chicken and eggs are already in the bottom of the hamper, it would be as well to avoid meat sandwiches. Possibly with today's luncheon a cheese filling and a few nut bread sandwiches will be as attractive and appetizing as any. Here are two good recipes for the filling.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD
Wanted—One Decent Man!

DEAR Miss McDonald: I have been very much interested in the articles that have been appearing on "petting." Those articles that write about girls being "reserved" and "modest" make me wish I could meet them face to face and say "Here I am, a modest and refined girl, make a date with me." Just watch them!

I have never in all my life met a decent fellow. It isn't the girls at all; it's the worthless men that are circling the globe these days. I am decent to the last word. Why I never even powder my face in public much less in front of a young man, I am that modest, and still with all my high ideals and modesty and reserve I am made a subject of the most disgusting treatment from young men that I come in contact with. I have a nice home and invite young men to my home, as I am not the kind that wants to be dragged around every night to cabarets and dance and drink. It's not appreciated, I tell you Miss McDonald, this being good. It makes me mad to see some painted up thing with lipstick and eye-liner stick away off from the color of her rouge, cavorting around with just the fellows that are razing them to you. What kind of men are they any way? They go out with them and spend all their money on them and ask where the recent ones are to you. I have had the worst treatment from men, just like the ones that are writing you every night just to see their articles in print, and the one that wrote about the "trailing scarf" probably the day he wrote about it had a date with a painted up "blonde," and if he had a chance that very night it would have been a "blonde" preferred rather than a reserved girl.

I have acted the lady at all times, but my dates are getting fewer and fewer until I'm so disgusted that I cancel the few remaining ones that call occasionally because I know what's ahead of me. They tell me that I have that "appeal" that "gets" them. I should be complimented, but I'm ashamed that this should hinder my having my birthright—respect. One man took me out for an evening. And he knew in the beginning that he was taking a modest and refined girl out. Why, he called after me at my mother's and she gave him a cup of tea before starting out and asked him over to supper some night. But did it phase him? He said afterward he had had a terrible evening because I bewitched him. They make me sick, Miss McDonald and that's the truth.

Beauty and You

ROSE POTPOURRI.

By Viola Paris.

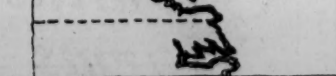

SOME day I'm going to tell you how to avoid nerve specialists' bills by always having at least one lovely negligee. Today I'll talk of another road to relaxation that costs nothing if you live in the country and grow roses. If you live in town you can save the petals of those given you and get the same result. Little by little, the recipe was given me by my grandmother, but it's just as good today.

Pack roses petals in layers with salt, using a small handful of salt three handfuls of petals. Keep them five days, turning them twice a day. If you have as many as grandmother possessed you won't be surprised to know that "with every half petal you must use three ounces of powdered allspice and one ounce of stick cinnamon." But if you have much, much less you must cut the spices accordingly.

Let the mixture stand one week or longer, turning it daily. Now put the whole of it into a rose jar after stirring in one ounce of allspice, one-half pound of dried lavender flowers, one ounce of bruised cloves, another ounce of stick cinnamon, one grated nutmeg, one-half cup sliced ginger root, one-half ounce anise seed, ten grains Canton musk of finest quality and two ounces of orris root—or just a tiny bit of each of these ingredients, if your roses were few and far between. A few drops of attar-of-roses or any flower extract may be added at any time.

Now comes the use of it. You come home at night tired, then open the top of the rose jar, and the sweet, old-fashioned fragrance steals out into your room—like moonlight, like soft music. It does something to your nerves that takes the clock back to more leisurely days—grandmother's days. If your potpourri is perfectly dried you may even mix it with wool and fill a tiny cushion to tuck into your chair, where you may dream in peace.

EVE IN PARIS

Dearest Claribel—What do you think? The ostrich has stopped hiding his head in the sands of time and has come out into the limelight of the mode. Shades of Queen Alexandra!

You see him at the top of the page, as Reboux has him domesticated to play at being a collar. Two shades of navy blue in front and at the sides, my dear—and a brilliant section of cerise in back! The return of this ostrich collar—seems to me most interesting and significant as a trend that is in exactly the opposite direction from the hard little tailleur now so popular. The hat that I have sketched is from Reboux, too—a soft straw called "chouquette," covered with little beads of the same material and very new. The fuzzy things underneath the collared-and-hatted lady are the Malmalson carnations that everybody wears, made of chiffon, muslin, even of crepe, if the coat with which they're worn is in that material. In a three-color sport costume, the flower matches any one of the three colors used.

Coming events cast their sketches before them! I bought you the earrings! No, dearest, they aren't diamonds. Nobody died and left me Florida. They're marquisette set in silver, but quite lovely—and only 300 francs a pair! The pin—also for you—is in tiny brilliant flowers. Am I your fairy god-mother? I am! As ever, EVE.

BUTTERFLY BUSINESS IS BUILT BY WOMAN

Mrs. E. O. Groves, of Miami, Also Deals in Grasshoppers; Sells Many.

Miami, Fla., June 18 (By A. P.). Clad in a khaki shirt and a wide brimmed straw hat and armed with a net and bag, a serious little Miami woman of slight build and white hair goes forth each day in search of butterflies and moths.

For collecting and breeding beautiful marked specimens of this species of insect is a business with Mrs. Elizabeth O. Groves. She has one of the largest laboratories of its nature in the country.

She receives orders for rare butterflies from scientific institutions and colleges that specialize in natural history, from jewelers and collectors.

During her first season she sold more than $400 worth of the tiny blue-winged butterfly that feeds on the coultie. This is said to be a rare specimen in other sections, but common in Florida. Mrs. Groves also collects grasshoppers. She does not know what they were wanted for, but each was worth 3 cents.

HANDS GIVE EVIDENCE.

THE Alameda County Public Health News quotes Dr. J. T. Bowen as saying there are five types of hands which would reveal the occupation of the owner to a man with a Sherlock Holmes training:

1. Workers in aniline dyes sometimes have hands "subdued to the dyes they work in."
2. Farmers and other outdoor workers have hands that are first bronzed. A form of skin cancer is quite apt to develop in persons who are much weather-beaten.
3. Manual laborers are apt to have corns on the hands. The location of the corns indicates the job.
4. Workers in silver have small black spots, pinhead to pea-sized, on the back of the hand. These spots never disappear.
5. The back of the hands of millers have "a false coloring" that is destructive.

The great majority of the so-called eczemas of the hands are the result of occupational poisoning. Dr. Bowen gives the following list of occupations and their peculiar skin troubles:

- Housewives—Skin disease due principally to cleansing compounds, soaps, washing powders and alkalies.
- Bakers—Skin disease due principally to the moist dough and heat.
- Barbers—The skin troubles of barbers and hairdressers are due to the use of soaps, alcoholic solutions, preparations, and dyes. Possibly also they are somewhat unduly subjected to such parasitic diseases as barber's itch and ringworm.
- Confectioners—Skin and nail troubles are due to the exposure of the trade, but the exact cause has not been determined.
- Builders, brick masons, brick makers, cement pourers—Exposure to cold and wet causes chilblains; skin troubles due to lime are frequent.

Tobacco workers—Skin troubles are liable to develop on the hands. Furniture polishers—Skin troubles known as "polisher's itch" are caused by the use of impure alcohol, impure benzine, and wood alcohol as a solvent or cutting agent. Pyridin used to denature alcohol is often the cause.

Printers—Skin troubles due to the use of benzine, turpentine, lye, petroleum and pine oil as cleaning agents. Lye is used to wash off molds. A wash of blue stone and muretic acid may cause trouble.

CHILDREN'S TEMPERATURE.

Mrs. S. L. G. writes: My 4-year-old son, for the last week or so, begins to get warm around 4 in the afternoon and his fever rises and he stays hot all night. In the morning he seems to be all right again. He has no appetite and eats only when made to do so, and then only sparingly.

He has no appetite for wholesome foods, craving only candy. Please tell me if he needs a tonic or what I should do.

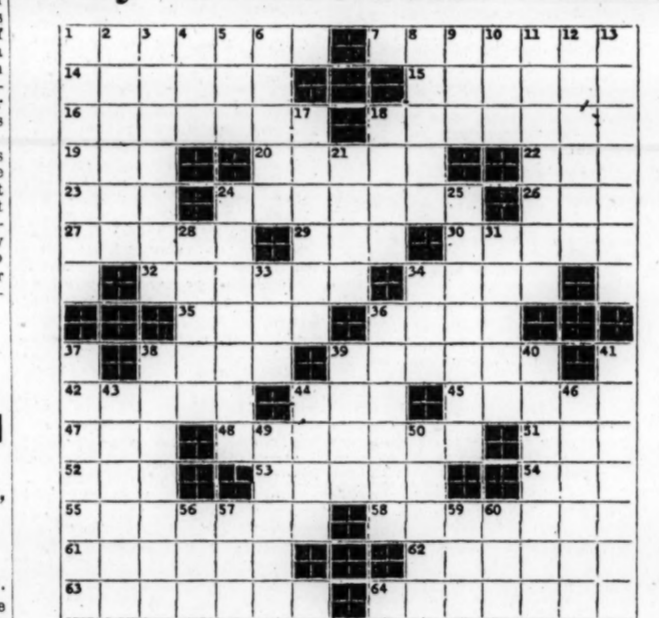

REPLY.

There is some trouble. Find out what it is.

He may have malaria, consumption or some other form of tubercular infection, or some other kind of infection. Acidosis is another possibility.

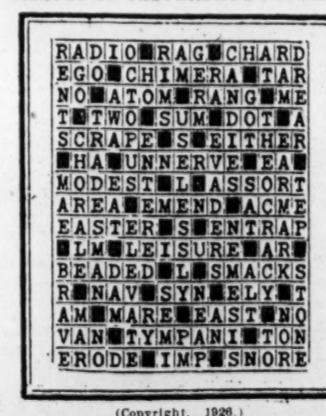

You can not tell what to do until you learn what the trouble is.

(Copyright, 1926.)

HER MOTHER

Edited by Joseph Kaye.
THE MOTHER OF MARIE DRESSLER.

MARIE DRESSLER is one of the best known and best loved comedienne on the American stage. Lately she has been making fewer appearances and no doubt will shortly retire altogether.

Marie Dressler inherited her theatrical talents from her mother, and it was her mother who gave her her first training for the stage. As she herself:

"Although my mother never acted she possessed a keen dramatic sense. I remember her arrangement of living pictures as the loveliest I have ever seen. She was invariably displaying these and my first appearance on the stage was as cupid, in an affair for a church benefit.

"Despite the chronic poverty of my family, mother managed to keep us in the right atmosphere, always seeing that father, who was a musician, played the church organ without compensation, and by working indefatigably herself for all the charities. She gave me my first insight into the fact that as long as I did things for nothing I could get into society."

Miss Dressler's father was a musician and teacher of music, and what the comedienne means was that her mother, by persuading him to play at churches and charitable affairs for nothing, created much good will in the community where they happened to be and so attracted many music pupils. This gentle diplomacy worked well.

Where Did Bonito Bury the Treasure?

WHAT became of the ill-gotten spoils of that lusty old pirate Benito Bonito, who piled his trade so vigorously during the early years of the nineteenth century? What became of some weary treasure seeker some day uncover the fortune which it is still believed is buried in the Cocos Islands?

It was in 1819 that the rich Spanish merchants of Lima, fearing the advance of Bolivar, the liberator, into Peru, made haste to transport their wealth to their native land. The bullion and coined jewels of that city were hastily loaded aboard all manner of vessels which happened to be in the harbor.

Here indeed was an unexampled opportunity for the gold-hungry pirates who at that time infested the seas, and they lost no time in taking advantage of it. Ships were plundered right and left. Benito Bonito, one of the most famous pirates of those days, was reputed to have seized millions of dollars in gold and jewels, and was said to have buried the treasure for safe keeping in the Cocos Islands in the Pacific.

In 1855 an expedition was organized by a young English lawyer, E. F. McKnight, to go in search of this hidden gold. McKnight had come into possession of a map made by an old seaman, known as the Pirate because of a scar on his face. On his deathbed the Pirate had entrusted his map to the captain of the ship on which he died. The captain, in turn, passed on the map to McKnight.

Guided by the map the McKnight expedition landed on the Cocos Islands and identified the mountain which was indicated as Sugar Loaf. Many other landmarks were easily identified. The map at least was authentic.

According to the old seaman, the treasure was to be found at the base of Sugar Loaf—the long hidden fortune of Benito Bonito. In the face of enormous difficulties—the burning heat of those tropic islands and the huge land crabs that attempted to devour them—they eagerly sought to uncover the gold. But, like so many previous expeditions to the romantic Cocos Islands, no gold rewarded their search.

Many subsequent attempts to locate the treasure of Benito Bonito have been made and although his cachet has never been discovered, the story of his gold on the Cocos Islands still persists and even to this day lures the imagination of the adventurous.

Will the patience of some optimistic searcher one day be rewarded by the sight of treasure richer than could be paid by the most extravagant imagination? Is there any treasure to be found on the Cocos Islands? This is a question that may be solved any year by some new expedition to those South Pacific islands.

The Smart Thing to Wear—

The Moire Frock

That Paris Now Sponsors

THE newest Paris inspiration for the daytime mode has come to Jelleff's in an advance collection of fall frocks for women and misses. With all Paris shouting the praises of moire as a medium for the expression of a certain chic that is tailored without being too tailored and yet not too informal—there is nothing else for the smart woman or miss to do but to own at least one moire frock—just to be a little in advance of the season.

THE moire frock illustrated at the left caters to the vogue for fringe—which Paris still insists on using and of course it has a tunic and V-neckline like all the other new smart Paris frocks that have recently made their debut.

Feminine Trade Union League to Assemble

Kansas City (By A. P.).—The tenth biennial convention of the National Women's Trade Union League, in which are federated many thousands of working women and friends of their movement, will open here June 28.

Problems of women workers, the gathering of these workers into trade unions and legislative programs will feature the meeting. Among the national officers of the league are Mrs. Maud Swartz, New York, a printer, who is national president; Miss Rose Schuler, chairman of the executive committee, also of New York, a cap maker, national vice president, and Miss Elizabeth Cristman, of Chicago, a glove maker, national secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Raymond Robins, for many years president of the organization, now is honorary president.

Snakeskin Jackets Worn at Longchamp

Paris (By A. P.).—Snake-skin spats and pocketbooks, and now snakeskin jackets have made their appearance on the Champs Elysees and at the Longchamp races. These startling reptilian coats, which are weird enough to make any serious drinker believe his dreams of pink and blue snakes have come true, are the length of a jacket and trimmed with fur at the neck and the hem. They are patterned to resemble the mottled skin of a rattlesnake, usually toned to light-brown color. The snakeskin effect is produced by glazing the material.

Women's Freedom In Turkey a Myth

Angora, (By A. P.).—Mustapha Kemal's "emancipation" for Turkish women is little more than a myth. On a tour of Anatolia it was found that, except in large cities, 90 per cent of the Turkish women still wear the veil and lead the same miserable existence their sisters did for 400 years before them.

It is true polygamy has been suppressed and that the Moslem woman is now permitted to appear in public, but her social and political position is still very obscure. There is no direct universal suffrage.

Conduct and Common Sense

QUESTIONS ABOUT NAMES ON CARDS.

By Anne Singleton.

SOMETIMES we are asked what names widows use on their cards. Their husband's name, of course, is the answer. Unless a woman belongs to the Lucy Stone league (a league which seems to us to take no account of the family as a unit), she takes her husband's name at marriage and continues to call herself by it till she dies. A widow does not return to her Christian name. She is not Mrs. Mary Brown just because her husband, John Brown, is dead. She is still Mrs. John Brown. If her son, who was John Brown, Jr., has a wife (who must naturally drop the junior on her cards now that her husband has done so), Mrs. Brown may call herself Mrs. John Brown and get her son to use a middle name which would differentiate the two Mrs. Browns. Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. John Middleton Brown, "Senior" is never used on cards or letters.

In the case of divorced women the maiden surname is generally put before whatever name they took when they married. The former Miss Anne Bently, married to Mr. Thomas Grey, when divorced from him, would call herself Mrs. Bently Grey.

Men who are Juniors may have the word written out, as "Junior," or the two letters "Jr." on their cards, as they please. But "Jr." or "Junior" does not do away with the title of "Mr." prefixed to the name, as some ignorant etiquette articles have it. The man is Mr. John Brown, Jr., on the cards, and John Brown, Jr., Esq., on his properly addressed letters. We have been very careful about our own etiquette book.

They've Arrived—

Modish Mitzi—Polly and Aunt Sophia—and, They're Wearing the Smartest Coats

Mitzi finds a smart counterpart here in the Coat Section—it's a fine navy blue charmeuse, mannishly tailored, and lined with polka-dot silk, which also makes the very smart scarf which she wears tied in a bow at her neck, $39.50.

Aunt Sophia would have probably chosen this smart coat—since she is partial to the deep vee-shape back—it is of a green kasha-like fabric with the deep vee yoke effect, long tuxedo collar and cuffs of spotted chipmunk.

Other very attractive coats for every travel use $39.50 to $150

Polly's traveling costume is topped by a coat of tulle lined with polka-dotted silk which is also used for a scarf. Her hat is of two shades of felt (see the scalloped around the crown). Aunt Sophia's coat has a V-shaped trimming line in back.

This is the family home and from the way it is boarded up you may surmise that Dad isn't going back to the comfort of his pot case chair for a long while. Even this stray cat seems to know that there is no danger of being shoed or shushed away!

8 GREAT COLUMNS OF WOMEN'S ARMY ARRIVE AT LONDON

Demonstration for Peace Will Be Held Today in Hyde Park.

28 PLATFORMS BUILT FOR NOTED SPEAKERS

Footsore, but Determined, Crusaders Pour Into City
From All Directions.

London, June 18 (By A. P.).—The vanguard of eight great columns of women pilgrims who have been marching on London for five weeks entered the historic city today in preparation for their huge "peace rally" at Hyde park tomorrow.

This first contingent of the pilgrims, which marched from Brighton, Hastings and Worthing, walked to the Crystal palace headed by a young blue-robed woman wearing a banner with the device "Law, Not War." Others of the marchers carried staves with cross pieces bearing the names of 35 towns and villages which had passed a resolution calling upon the government to settle all national disputes by conciliation and arbitration.

The name of but one village in Kent—Lamberhurst—was carried in reverse as a sign that the population there had rejected the resolution. "Even had an archangel come to them for peace, it would not have made any difference," the leader of the contingent said.

Are Greeted Cordially.
Everywhere else, however, the pilgrims were greeted cordially and were presented with flowers. Two footsore women on the last stages of the journey were given a ride by a bus driver who refused to take their fares because he said he was a friend of peace.

From Crystal palace the contingent marched to Fulham, where they joined another group from Land's End and Southampton. After gathering in the grounds of the bishop of London's palace, they were addressed by Canon Donaldson, of Westminster abbey. They then reaffirmed their resolution in behalf of peace.

Other sections of the women's peace army, which is about 7,000 to 8,000 strong, will be met at the four points of the compass of the London area. The eight columns now on the road will merge tomorrow morning and will march to Hyde park, where 28 platforms have been erected, from which noted women leaders will speak at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The marchers will be led by women on horseback wearing blue cloaks and will be greeted by a pageant symbolic of the coming of peace in Hyde park.

Immaculately dressed in English tailored clothes, with a small mustache, he might be mistaken for Alphonso himself.

Lack of Sense of Humor Saves Student Bandit

New York, June 18 (By A. P.).—Lack of "the saving quality of a well-developed sense of humor" was one of the factors mentioned in a probation officer's report which today saved Alexander Reilly Hodges, former University of Kansas athlete, from a prison sentence. He was given, instead, a suspended sentence for holding up a restaurant near Columbus circle, on April 20.

Delving into the hidden labyrinth of Hodges' mind, a psychiatrist found numerous mental traits which Judge Allen considered of an extenuating nature. The report of a probation officer said that Hodges' "constant struggle to secure a higher education" had prevented a well-balanced psychological development. The death of his sister, following close upon that of a brother, together with the strain of acquiring a college education, had "tinged his outlook on life with a fatalism" which manifested itself in moments of emotional strain, said the report.

CONGRESS' ADJOURNMENT IS DEFERRED TO JUNE 30

Leaders Say Second Deficiency and Harbors Measures Require More Time.

(By Associated Press.)

The date for adjournment of Congress was changed yesterday by Republican leaders from June 25 to June 30 with varying explanations of the reason.

On the House side it was said additional time would be required for consideration of the second deficiency bill which will carry funds for beginning work this summer of a number of postoffices and buildings throughout the country.

Senate leaders explained the delay was due to the demand for a Senate vote on the controversial rivers and harbors bill. It has been approved by the House and for some days has been the subject of hearings held by the Senate commerce committee.

Representative Madden, Republican, of Illinois, who has been insisting that Congress remain in session until the measure can be brought to a vote in the Senate, said it would be impossible for the House appropriations committee, of which he is chairman, to report the deficiency bill before Thursday.

He disclaimed any intention of delaying the supply measure in an effort to force action on the rivers and harbors proposal, with its Illinois river development provision, and said that several days were still needed for his committee to hear witnesses on the deficiency bill.

Decision to wind up the session at 5 p. m. a week from Wednesday, instead of June 26, was reached by the House Republican steering committee. Senate leaders acquiesced, although there was a

14 JUVENILE BASEBALL TEAMS GUESTS OF POST

Jerry Wolf Enthusiasts Entered in Contest for World Series Trip.

20 FANS HAVE CHANCE

Members of fourteen juvenile baseball teams, of the Jerry Wolf Sport Shop league, were the guests of the world series contest department of The Washington Post last night and were shown the workings of a newspaper office.

Jerry Wolf, who conducts a sporting goods shop at 3307 Fourteenth street northwest, is popular in athletics, especially baseball, in this city. He is particularly popular with juvenile athletes, and this year organized his sport shop league, which is composed of fourteen teams, the members of which are all under 16 years of age.

When The Post first instituted its world series contest, Jerry hit upon the idea of entering his whole league in the contest, and broached the subject to the various managers of the teams. They agreed and the entire league is now entered. Wolf is confident that at least one of the fourteen teams is going to the series this fall.

The contest? Nearly every one knows about that by this time. The Washington Post will take 46 persons to the baseball classic this fall, regardless of where it is played. Two baseball teams, composed of the nine regular players, three substitutes and the manager, and 20 fans, men, women or children, who obtain the most subscriptions to The Post between now and September, will compose the lucky 46. Any information regarding the contest will be furnished at the office of the contest manager, room 49, The Post building.

The present plan is to have adjournment resolution offered Monday in the House, where such a proposal must originate. While there is expected to be opposition in both the House and Senate to its adoption, leaders were of the opinion that it would command a majority in both houses.

The Wanderlust is already stirring most of us to the making of outing and vacation plans. Don't overlook a vote in the Senate, said it would be impossible for the House appropriations committee, of which he is chairman, to report the deficiency bill before Thursday.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon June 18 and recessed at 5:35 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Continued debate on McNary farm relief bill. Senator McNary falling in several attempts to obtain unanimous consent agreement for time to vote.

Senator Bruce (Democrat), of Maryland, assailed measure as "menace to prosperity of country," and "another brainstorm economic fallacy, illusion and hallucination of the Bryan and Brookhart West." Rising to question of privilege, Senator Willis (Republican), of Ohio, denied that he was on pay roll of the Antislavery league, but admitted he had made prohibition speeches outside of Ohio before he became a senator, for which he had been paid by local committees.

Senate passed bill to reimburse world fliers for expenses authorized by Secretary of War, but disallowed by comptroller general.

President Coolidge withdrew nominations of William J. Tilson to be judge of the new middle district of Georgia and nominees for attorney general.

Special session will be held tomorrow at which life and services of late Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, will be eulogized.

Postoffice committee favorably reported House bill which would bar from mails pistols, revolvers and other concealable firearms.

Commerce committee considering rivers and harbors bill began discussion of proposed purchase of Cape Cod canal.

Committee investigating Pennsylvania senatorial primary unsuccessfully sought to trace origin of alleged spurious letter published by Pepper-Fisher committee over signature of President William Green, of American Federation of Labor, endorsing Fisher for governor.

When Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, sought to give publicity to testimony of Dwight Morrow, vice president of J. P. Morgan & Co., in French debt hearing, Chairman Smoot charged him with trying to play politics. Committee voted to remain in executive session.

HOUSE.

Met at noon, June 18, and adjourned at 4:45 p. m. until Monday at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Underhill, Republican, of Massachusetts, called on Department of Justice to take action against those promoting meetings and demonstrations against execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti by Massachusetts authorities.

The late Vice President Marshall was eulogized by Mr. McSweeney, of Ohio, and Andrew Jackson by Mr. Hammer, of North Carolina.

Bill by Mr. Miller, Republican, of Washington, would prohibit interstate transportation of films depicting banditry, lawlessness, or in which a revolver is aimed by one person at another.

Floating Church Used By Cleveland Pilgrims

Cleveland, June 18 (By A. P.).—A "floating church" carrying 500 Catholics, the official delegation of the Cleveland diocese, sailed from here today for the Eucharistic congress at Chicago.

The boat is the Seandee, one of the largest on the Great Lakes. It was chartered by Bishop Joseph Schrembs, who heads the diocesan delegation.

Two altars have been built into the boat especially for the trip. Every morning mass will be celebrated by the bishop or one of the priests making the trip.

The Seandee will dock at Chicago Sunday, opening day. During the five days the congress is in session the boat will be the home of the Cleveland pilgrims.

Bill Grants $10,000 To District Woman

(By Associated Press.)

Representative Bloom, Democrat, of New York, is sponsoring a bill to grant $10,000 to Mrs. Annie M. Eopoluel, of Washington, mother of the first American sailor killed in the world war.

John I. Eopoluel, boatswain's mate, who had served ten years in the navy, was killed when the steamship Aztec was torpedoed or mined off the coast of France, April 1, 1917. The war risk insurance act was not made effective until April 6, and the appropriation sought represents the sum the sailor's widowed mother would have received had he died a few days later. His brother, William, was killed on the Argonne battlefield.

BUILDING BUSINESS FOR PRESENT YEAR REACHES NEW HIGH

Attempt of Experts to Bury Boom Futile as Contracts Grow.

RURAL SECTIONS DUE FOR GREAT INCREASE

Reports Show Shortage of Skilled Labor in Many Cities.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.

It was the building construction revival that started the present train of industrial circumstances leading to our record prosperity. That was back in the latter part of 1921, and the building boom has been prematurely killed off by the experts several times since then. Just now the wisecracks are burying the boom again, notwithstanding the fact that 1925 was its banner year, with contracts totaling more than $5,000,000,000 in 35 States. But they are putting a lively corpse under ground, for the record shows that during the first four months of 1926 building throughout the country led the same four months of 1925 by a high, wide and handsome margin.

The building boom is not ended nor anywhere nearly ended. One phase of building, the construction of medium to high priced residences is bearing the close of its abnormal activity. Another phase, the construction of high-grade apartments, is also nearing the end of its five-year spurt. Reports show this conclusively. They also show, however, that the construction of lower-priced residences is picking up; that hotel construction is growing, especially in the Middle West; that the demand for office buildings is still far from satisfied; and that the public building program, which has been held back for better prices, is now fairly launching.

Many Houses Needed.

Surveys conducted by real estate and other organizations indicate, moreover, that the natural growth in the country's population requires a housing contract running between $3,500,000,000 and $4,500,000,000 annually. They also indicate that the next big extension of building is due in the rural sections. Farm building has dawdled far behind its normal expectancy during the past five years. They also indicate largely to the agricultural depression on the farm, the building boom in the country probably will reach unexpectedly large proportions this fall. Another indication of little let-up in building is the continuance of high wage scales. Under contracts made this year, wages in the building trades generally are from 3 to 5 per cent higher than they were last year. Department of Labor figures, gathered from many sections, show shortages of skilled labor in the building trades in some of the large centers.

Building material prices have been declining gently during the first half of 1926. The production of building materials, however, including lumber, has been greater than it was, as a rule, during the same period in 1925. Between declining prices and large production there is the intimate relation of effect and cause. The combination does not indicate a lessening of demand. It does indicate to the trade that caterers to the building feast have so much to serve that there is plenty for all. A year or so ago this was not the case and unusually high prices resulted.

Expert New Record.

Unless there is an unexpected snag in building operations this month, the total volume of building contracts awarded throughout the United States, January to June, inclusive, will exceed the volume of contracts awarded during the first half of 1925—the boom's record year. And unless there are still further unexpected recessions, building operations in 1926 will eclipse those of 1925 as a whole, notwithstanding the dire predictions of trade prophets to the contrary.

Bountiful crops are expected to hurt the rural building program to some extent, if such crops develop. Whether they will lie at the moment in the weather. Present indications are that the farmer has smothered himself again and will go to market this fall with such a whopping surplus as to lower farm product prices all along the line. If so, 1926 will hold little advancement for the farmer and little for the rural building program. But the present is separated from the fall by three months, and a farm forecast that far ahead is too dependent upon such variable things as winds, sunshine, clouds and labor as to be of great worth.

One of the significant things about the building boom today is that the great and responsible organizations of builders have reached the point where they are beginning to protect themselves more effectively against tricks of the trade, practiced by the small minority of less scrupulous contractors and sales agents. Through the Department of Commerce the building industry is checking up on these who skimp materials, substitute poor materials for good, or construct flimsily and cheaply where good, honest practices should prevail.

Sharpen Build Cheaply.

There are not many of these sharpeners, relatively, but the promise of large profits has resulted in a small crop of them. Some of them, according to reports to the government, have built houses so poorly and cheaply that the icebox may drop into the basement before the second trust is paid off. There is little such building going on today, and every reputable contractor has set his face against that sort of thing. With respect to many considerable lines of enterprise, the situation is difficult of analysis as the half year wanes. Take, for instance, the fertilizer business. It has beaten its previous record during the first half year, notwithstanding a rather gloomy outlook for many farm products. The chemical trade has gone along with it, although here again moves are mixed. Sulphur, for instance, has been produced at an unusually rate and gone to touch the high figure of $19 a ton, whereas industrial denatured alcohol, selling last year at about 52 cents a gallon, has dropped to less than 30 cents at the present time.

The apparel industry represents another unusual situation. Forearmed with the showing of unequalled prosperity in 1925, the industry turned its machines to higher speed early in the year and turned out what probably will develop to be a record amount of new clothing. A cold, raw and delayed spring resulted in a monumental falling off in sales. Easter brought shivers, and small sales. As a result of this mischance of weather, the entire industry is in low spirits and at low ebb.

Shoe Sales Fall Off.

Boot and shoe manufacturers, however, took a different course and find themselves in somewhat stronger position at the moment than the apparel industry. The boot and shoe business increased its output more than 3,000,000 pairs during the first quarter of 1926. They turned out the smallest production since 1922. It so developed that they guessed correctly. Shoe sales fell off, but the industry did not have the large accumulation of stocks that was experienced in 1923, when the industry turned out nearly 97,000,000 pairs in the first three months. The output was 79,000,000 pairs for the period. As a result the industry is in fair shape for fall activity.

Retail trade, the final barometer of prosperity, has been uniformly higher. Federal Reserve Board statistics, during 1926 than during the same period of 1925. Mail order houses, likewise, are doing more business. Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward and other mail order houses reported a year ago. And, up to the present, that has been their best post-war business on record.

Capital's Bank Deposits Show Greatest Increase

Federal Reserve Governor Tells Bankers' Convention Gains in Washington Exceed Those of Six Sections—Local Essay Winners Introduced.

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Hot Springs, Va., June 18.—"National banks in Washington showed the greatest growth in deposits in 1925 in the six divisions of States, comprising the Fifth Federal Reserve district, with a gain of 25.3 per cent," said George J. Seay, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, Richmond, today, in speaking on credit expansion to delegates of the District Bankers association, in the second session of their annual convention here.

North Carolina achieved the second largest growth, with 24.7 per cent, and Virginia was third of the group, with 19.7 per cent. The governor briefly paid his respects to the Strong bill which is now pending before Congress, declaring that its provisions are much too drastic and have the effect of making the Federal reserve system automatic, and pointed out that it should never be the function of any banking system to do more than promote the status of credit.

The Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, had a big part in the interesting program carried out today, and following the annual report of R. Jesse Chaney, past president of the Washington chapter, winners of the essay contest, conducted by the District Bankers association, were introduced by him. All three of the papers were read, in the order in which they were placed by the judges, the first paper being read by L. T. Savage, American Security Trust Co.; the second by Frank M. Perley, who by peculiar coincidence is with the same company, and the third by R. C. Calvo, of the Liberty National Bank.

At the conclusion of the presentation of essays, Howard Moran, vice president, who was presiding, called upon Francis G. Addison, Jr., president, to develop the discussion of the papers, which led to highly interesting discussions of important points in suggestions for improving systems of practices in any department of a bank or trust company, joined in by many of the bankers. As a result of these discussions it was decided that collection tellers of member banks in Washington would be called together at an early date for the express purpose of bringing out their thoughts on the best methods to be employed in handling collections with records.

Harry V. Haynes, president of the Farmers & Merchants Bank, chairman of the probate committee, presented a highly illuminating report, much of which was confidential. The big thing thus far developed in the convention was the recommendation of his committee that a credit bureau for the banks of Washington be established, and it was suggested that it be operated along the lines of the Cook county, Illinois, credit bureau. It was pointed out by Mr. Haynes that the conclusion that the District banks should have a credit bureau, was reached only after a careful and comprehensive study of the results being accomplished by their operations in other cities. It is expected that the new protective committee, which will be appointed tomorrow, will be charged with bringing about the establishment of the bureau, as it seems unlikely that the recommendation will go unheeded.

Last night's cotillion was a brilliant affair and added another star to the work of the entertainment committee, under the chairmanship of E. J. McQuade, vice president of Liberty National Bank. The arrival of W. J. Waller, vice president of the Federal-American National Bank, in Hot Springs tonight was marked by a reception by delegates and their wives who met his train with a brass band and escorted him to the hotel. Mr. Waller has been nominated for secretary.

A concert by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. M. Bowie, of Washington, was one of the high lights of the entertainment tonight.

George F. Rand, president of the Marine Trust Co. of Buffalo, N. Y.; Eugene V. Thayer and Harry T. Peters, both of New York city, have been elected directors of Southern Dairies, Inc.

Wall street estimates of this year's earnings of General Railway Signal Co. indicate possibly $15 a share on the common stock, based on the steady expansion of income business. The common was split five for one last year. The company is reported to have closed another large contract for automatic train control installation with a mid-western carrier, closely approaching the $5,000,000 order booked last year for the New York Central.

Denver dispatches to Wall street say Continental Oil Co. has acquired a half interest in the S. C. Munoz lease on Rattlesnake dome, in the northwestern section of New Mexico. The company expects to run oil from Rattlesnake to Gallup through its 90-mile pipe line by July 1.

Money Rates Likely Soon To Move a Trifle Lower

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, June 18.—The moderate firming in the call loan rate today had little connection with the stock market. It came from withdrawal of funds needed to meet quarterly income tax checks which are now being presented by the government for payment. The income tax date is almost invariably followed by a short period of ease, with a hardening tendency a few days later. The money outlook for the rest of the year is not so simple of analysis. While it will depend largely on business conditions, the consensus of banking opinion is that between now and August rates will remain at approximately the present levels, or move a trifle lower. With a substantial loan volume already attained, normal autumn trade expansion is expected to bring materially higher rates.

Bank clearings at leading cities for the week ended June 17 as reported to Bradstreet's Journal, aggregated $9,839,051,000, a gain of 8.7 per cent over last week, but a loss of 1.4 per cent from the corresponding week of last year. Outside of New York city the gain was 4.5 per cent over last week, while the decline from the corresponding week of 1925 was three-tenths of 1 per cent. New York showed a loss of 2.1 per cent from last year. Bank debits at 44 leading cities for the week ended June 16 totaled $10,769,004,000, a gain of 9 per cent over last week and of 2.3 per cent over the like week a year ago.

Wall street has awakened to the fact that locomotives do not last forever, and that the buying postponed during the last two years has been delayed little longer. This, as well as favorable technical conditions, accounts for the current strength of the equipment shares. According to data collected by the Department of Commerce only 1,191 steam locomotives were produced by the country's chief makers in 1925, and the total volume of the business was smaller than in any previous census year since 1914. The natural turn already has come. Baldwin, for example, after doing a $20,000,000 business for the first half year, has on hand unfilled orders of $25,000,000, assuring at least a $45,000,000 sales total for the year, against $27,876,084 in 1925, and $26,080,322 in 1924.

America Wins Wightman Trophy

British Women Bow in Tennis Tournament by 4-3 Score.

Cup Regained After 3 Years; Final Doubles Match Decides.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 18 (By A. P.).—Sensational tennis history was written here this afternoon when the quartet of American women racket stars regained the Wightman cup, emblematic of team supremacy in women's tennis. They took the cup from their English cousins in one of the closest international tennis contests on record.

America won four matches to three, but the last and deciding match, doubles, was a close affair, and it might have been a different story if the Yankee players, Miss Mary K. Browne, captain, and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, had not been able to come through with the winning games when, in the deciding third set, the score was four all. They defeated Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, and Miss Evelyn Colyer, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The trophy thus will go to the United States for the first time since 1922, when it was established. At that time it was won by the Americans, seven matches to nothing, at Forest Hills. For two years the Americans tried unsuccessfully to take it, Great Britain winning six matches to one at Wimbledon in 1924, and again at Forest Hills last year with a score of four matches to three.

At the end of the first day's play yesterday the British and American teams each had a victory in the singles. Today Miss Joan Fry, of England, defeated Miss Browne, 3-6, 6-0, 6-4, and Mrs. Godfree defeated Miss Elizabeth Ryan, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, giving the British team two more matches, for a total of three.

The Americans had three victories today for a total of four. Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, United States, defeated Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Brown, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4; Mrs. Jessup and Miss Eleanor Goss defeated the British pair, Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, 6-4, 6-2, and the Misses Browne and Ryan defeated Mrs. Godfree and Miss Colyer.

CRESCENTS ARE BOOKED.

PLAYERS—NOTICE.

in the Press Box with Baxter

BARE RUTH is in the Saragossa sea once more. Instead of marine growth, intentional passes are retarding the effort that the King Kieglie of Klout is making to set a new home-run record for the major leagues. Circuit slams may draw the cash customer through the turnstiles, but the other managers have not yet reached the point where the financial reward makes them willing to sacrifice a ball game just to please the producing proletariat.

For the first few weeks of the season Ruth was given a fairly even break. Opposing pitchers were granted an opportunity to pitch to the Babe. When he got ahead of the stride that enabled him to get 59 home runs a few seasons back the strategists called a halt. Intentional passes were the order of the day whenever Ruth came up in a tight place, and the Yankee slugger was deprived of a good many opportunities to increase his batting average.

The embarrassing position of the Babe has aroused a great deal of his friends and supporters, partisans who regarded it as a personal insult, when their hero is deprived of the chance to smash the ball. In the intentional pass most of them hit at the intentional pass and present varying theories by means of which this play can be eliminated from the game.

One suggestion to put teeth into the ban on the intentional pass is for the batter to be given two bases instead of one when a pitcher favors him with four straight balls. On the face of things this might serve in most instances to prevent the use of the stratagem, which the big leagues sought to eliminate by passing the buck to the umpires and forbidding the catchers to leave the box prior to the pitch.

ANOTHER innovation that Ruth's admirers have proposed is that the batter be given the option, when he is given four straight balls, of taking his base or remaining at the plate until he has had an opportunity to use his three strikes. Building on this foundation, another rule-maker would allow the batter to take two bases in the event of eight straight balls, three bases on twelve, and a circuit of the bases on sixteen.

This column does not believe that the intentional pass is as great a menace to baseball as do those who live and die with the progress of Babe Ruth. At times it is a perfectly legitimate and obvious stratagem. The progress of the batter is not always the only consideration. Few hitters suffer consistently from its use. Babe Ruth does not.

Hagen 4 Down To Mitchell In Match

Englishman Leads in First Half of Title Play.

Walter Is Sartorially Perfect, But His Golf Isn't.

VIRGINIA WATER, Sussex, England, June 18 (By A. P.).—Walter Hagen, American star, tonight was trailing Abe Mitchell, ace of the British golf professionals, after the first day's play of their long heralded 72-hole match for the unofficial world's match play championship.

With 36 holes played, Hagen was 4 down to the British star in his fight for the championship and the largest stake money in the history of golf—$500 a side and other wagers. But Hagen and his retinue which includes an imported caddy, were anything but downcast.

The American star's followers were least of all dismayed. They cited Hagen's last encounter with Mitchell in America when the Briton was 4 up with 8 to play and still Hagen pulled through victoriously.

THE American star, who spent last night on a train from the north of England, arrived here debonair as usual and the picture of sartorial perfection. He was parbed in a white sweater with a delicate edging, mauve plus fours and white shoes. Mitchell's golfing clothes were a drab grey, but his playing made up for his lack of sartorial splendor.

The morning round found Hagen three down to Mitchell. Although the British player was powerful through the fairways, he was a little shaky on the green and if he had taken all the opportunities that Hagen offered, he would have left the American six down instead.

The cards follow:
MORNING.
Out—Hagen, 5; Mitchell, 4; 4-5.
In—Hagen, 4; Mitchell, 5; 5-4.
AFTERNOON.
Out—Hagen, 4; Mitchell, 4; 4-4.
In—Hagen, 4; Mitchell, 4; 4-4.
Mitchell, 5; Hagen, 4; 4-5.

SPEED KINGS MATCH SKILL IN 3 RACES AT LAUREL OVAL TODAY

Foreign and American Built Cars Vie in 25, 50 and 100 Mile Events—Keech Expected to Set Pace.

SEEKING the thrills that only can come from watching fast motors roar past at two miles a minute or more, a throng of followers of the fortunes of the knights of the roaring road is expected to crowd the big grandstand at the Baltimore-Washington speedway for the 25, 50 and 100-mile races that will be run there this afternoon.

Dare-devils who face death at every bend of the giant pine ribbon but smilingly press the "button" to the floor and rise to still greater bursts of speed are promising a program that will team with excitement and interest from the start to the final wave of the checkered flag.

Speed kings who are to match their driving skill with the Laurel oval, admittedly the "trickiest track" in the world, have been shooting down its straightaways and skimming around its treacherous curves for several days past endeavoring to wrest from it the secret of avoiding the pitfalls that will send them skidding for their lives.

THE performers in the afternoon's program, which will get under way at 2:30, with the 25-mile sprint coming first, the 50-mile dash following, and the 100-mile feature the climax of the three events, wear the colors of the National Motor Racing association.

Foreign cars, heretofore unseen at the Laurel oval, are entered. There is Warren Chadwick, driving No. 6 Mercedes; Oscar Olsen, at the wheel of No. 10 Hispano-Suiza, and the doughty Frenchman, Armond Pugh, driving a Bugatti.

But the American-built cars are expected to show some speed that will be unsurpassed by any in the field. Ray Keech, in No. 7 Miller, rode above the top white line yesterday at 127 miles an hour. He is expected to set the pace today.

Fred Winal, the youngster who intends to show to spectators today some fancy riding if nothing else, rode the big pine bowl with the characteristic pose of Barney Oldfield. Fred clenched a huge black cigar between his lips as he guided No. 8 Duesenberg, which he will pilot this afternoon.

ADJUSTMENTS were being made constantly by Jimmy Gleason, who had pushed his mount to 110 miles an hour and then determined to make some radical changes that he declares will add some miles to his lap time today.

Special trains will start running from union station at 10:30 this morning and continue at intervals.

Harris Peeved At Team's Slump

Second Place Goal of Nats; Scout Engel to Be Active.

Coveleskie Opposes Browns Today; Johnson Tomorrow.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Manager Harris admitted today that he was just about convinced that this is not a Washington year. No one can accuse him of not being a fighter, but he also is blessed with his share of common sense, and is not one of those kind of fellows who have to be drowned in order to learn that deep water is dangerous for a man who can not swim.

"These frequent losses are getting my goat," he said this morning, in discussing the Nationals, and I can hardly believe that we have slipped back as far in one season as the records indicate. I still think we have lots of quality, but we have been unfortunate in not being able to get together all at one time.

"Earlier in the season our pitching was not so good, but we were hitting fairly well. Then we got better box work and the batters went on a vacation. Our errors nearly always have proven costly, and added to all this we have not been getting the breaks which generally go with a winning team.

"ORDINARILY a team around the 500 margin in late July has a fine chance to cope, but I must admit that the Yankees this year have run up such a substantial lead that it looks as though only a miracle will prevent them from winning out.

"We're going to keep on fighting in the hope that one of those miracle things does happen but, frankly, I think we will be doing well if we manage to come in second at the finish.

"Unless we suddenly start winning consistently even this looks to be out of our reach and, once I'm convinced that the runner-up place is too high to hope for, you'll see more changes and experiments than you ever dreamed of. For I will start doing what rebuilding I can at once.

"After having landed a second American league pennant, Harris was confident that his team could repeat and, for this reason, kept Scout Engel working "under wraps."

Stanley Coveleskie and Walter Johnson will pitch the remaining games scheduled with the Browns on this trip. Milton Gaston is expected to oppose the Pole tomorrow, while the Big Train will work in the Sabbath contest. This will be "Coffeeville Day," with several hundred fans from Barney's home town on hand to cheer him on.

Davis' Passes Aid Nats in Scoring

Ruether Shows Return to Form; St. Louis in Uphill Fight.

Melillo's Home Run Ties Score; Marberry Finishes.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
ST. LOUIS, June 18.—It took the Nats ten innings this afternoon to cop a ball game, 4 to 3, which they should have won in regulation time but for an error by the usually reliable Sam Rice, which gave the Browns one of their runs. This victory and Detroit's defeat allowed the Nats to advance to fifth place in the standing.

Sisler gave Dixie Davis the pitching call, and he did all in his power to give the Harrismen a start, passing three in a row in the second, all of which were turned into markers. Ernie Wingard, of portside persuasion, relieved him and hurled a good game until beaten by a ninth inning Washington rally. Dutch Ruether flung for the Nats, but gave way to a pinch hitter in round ten, and Fred Marberry toiled the last frame.

It was a blow off Ruel's bat that gave the Harrismen their winning run, it being a lousy triple with one on. Muddy, as might be mentioned, also came through in the second canto with a single which sent two more over the plate.

COLLYER'S FAIRMOUNT

Sandy Hatch Favored at Latonia

Handicapper Selects Token to Win Fort Erie Feature.

President Called Best of Get-Away-Day at Aurora.

By BERT E. COLLYER.

BIG stakes. Picking the stake winners at the main tracks is again my pleasure. Other handicappers dislike the idea of testing their skill against the racing officials, but this is not the case with yours truly. The $25,000 Fairmount derby is the main event of the afternoon. BOGEYBAGGAGE and BOOT TO BOOT will run up against a great horse in HASTE, but I am stringing along with the Idle Hour farm pair. That long ride from New York will not help the Widener colt. But he is sure to give the Bradley representatives quite an argument.

Over at Fort Erie the Staller Handicap, a $5,000 race, is the chief attraction. It will bring some good ones to the post. According to my figures, TOKEN has all the best of the weights and should lead JOY SMOKER to the wire. Edisto is not going to contest, which enhances the chances of TOKEN.

Down at Latonia two stake events are carded for decision. In the rich Harold stakes GENERAL HALDEMAN, one of the cracks of the season, should bring home the money. Torchella is on the alling list and will not line up at the barrier. A great field of handicappers is scheduled to try for the $5,000 prize in the Enquirer Handicap, which is at a mile and one-sixteenth. This is a very open race, but PRINCE DORRICK in the present form figures a shade the best. KING NADI may show improvement over his last effort, but is hardly good enough.

Out at Aurora the meeting comes to a close this afternoon. The chief attraction is the $2,000 Lincoln Handicap. PRESIDENT, which was recently shipped here, seems to be the class of the race, and with good luck will show his field the shortest way to the wire.

HOSPITAL PATIENT ASKS MURDER TRIAL

St. Elizabeths Patient Holds
He Is Recovered and Ready to Face Charge.

George Victor de Brodes, patient at St. Elizabeths hospital, where he was committed June 26, 1923, as an insane person, who was charged with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Frances de Brodes, wants to be tried on the murder charge, according to a petition for writ of habeas corpus submitted yesterday in the District Supreme court through Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Godfrey L. Munter. Justice Hoehling directed Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the hospital, to produce de Brodes in court on June 25 for a lunacy hearing.

Mrs. de Brodes was shot and killed near the Union station during the first part of June, 1923, following a dispute with her son over his intention to marry.

On August 25, 1925, de Brodes attempted to have himself declared sane, but Justice Hitz, after a hearing, decided that his mental condition had not improved and sent him back to St. Elizabeths hospital. The testimony introduced at that hearing showed that de Brodes' principal ailment was epilepsy. Attorneys Lambert and Munter now contend that de Brodes has improved enough since the last hearing to warrant the court to declare him sane and place him on trial on the murder charge.

MRS. VOIGT GIVEN $100,000 VERDICT IN ALIENATION SUIT

Wife Wins Record Amount in Suit Against Parents of Husband.

PLEAS OF AFFECTION
FAIL TO SWING JURY

Jeweler and Wife Deny Turning Son's Love to Cruelty.

Mrs. Hilda C. Voigt, 1422 Harvard street northwest, wife of Edward Voigt, Jr., and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Voigt, sr., 2132 Wyoming avenue northwest, who sued her husband's parents for $100,000 damages for the alleged alienation of his affections, was awarded a full verdict yesterday by a jury in circuit court, before Justice William Hitz.

The verdict for $100,000, the largest ever awarded in this jurisdiction in an alienation suit, was awarded by a jury of six men and one woman, and won favorable comment from Attorneys T. Morris Wampler and Robert E. Lynch, counsel for the plaintiff.

The verdict was awarded despite testimony of the husband of the plaintiff that he loved his wife when he married her, and that he still loves her. He said he was perfectly willing to furnish her a home separately and apart from his parents, with whom they lived during the first part of their married life. The husband was at one time president of the Commercial and Savings Bank, which was absorbed by the Security Savings & Commercial Bank. He is now engaged in the jewelry business with his father on Seventh street northwest. He is also a defendant in a maintenance suit, brought by his wife.

Wife Charges Criticism.

According to testimony the plaintiff's principal complaint against her husband's parents was that they resorted to criticism of her, that they belittled her, dominated her daily life at the Voigt home and the life of her husband to such an extent that in her opinion, their individualities were submerged.

As a result of the alleged attempts to belittle her and as a result of the alleged criticism, Mrs. Voigt declared that her husband, presumably because of the influence of his parents, became a weakling.

The senior Mr. Voigt and his wife denied the charges against them and insisted they had always treated their daughter-in-law with respect. They said that their relations had been friendly until that the daily contact was all that could be expected in the way of cordiality and enthusiasm. They especially denied the charges accusing them of attempting to create the impression in their son's mind that he had married an inferior woman.
